Secretary of the Interior Faces Crowded Room as He Appears Before Inquiry Board for Examination.

CASE NEARS CLOSE

Declares He Has No Interest in the Cunningham Claims and Never Has Had—Outlines His Career.

WASHINGTON—Secretary of the Interior Richard A. Ballinger took the witness stand today at the congressional investigation of charges made against him by L. A. Glavis, former field agent of the land office, and Gifford Pinchot, the removed chief forester. When asked whether he would have an advance statement such as Mr. Pinchot read from the stand, Secretary Ballinger said:

"No, I will not follow in the footsteps of those who throw calumny on government officials and then refuse to swear to their statements."

The hearing room was crowded to the doors, a large percentage being women. Atty. Gen. J. V. Vertrees, chief counsel for Mr. Ballinger, conducted his direct examination.

Before Mr. Ballinger took the stand Attorney Brandeis renewed his request that the attorney-general be asked to produce drafts of his "summary" of the Glavis charges. On Thursday the committee blocked this move, but Mr. Brandeis today declared that the necessity of having these papers was imperative before his cross-examination of the secretary. Chairman Nelson said the committee had decided to hear arguments on the matter by counsel on both sides later.

Mr. Ballinger, who apparently was perfectly at ease, briefly outlined his public services in the state of Washington, laying particular stress on the anti-vice crusade he led while mayor of Seattle.

He declared that it was only upon the repeated solicitation of Senator Piles of Washington, James R. Garfield, then secretary of the interior, and President Roosevelt himself, that he consented to become commissioner of the general land office.

"My relations with Mr. Garfield," Secretary Ballinger said, "were entirely friendly, but not intimate. I knew him in college."

When Mr. Ballinger came to Washington as commissioner, he testified, the members of his law firm agreed they were not to engage in any law practice

MAYOR FITZGERALD
ARRAIGNS FRAMERS
OF CITY'S CHARTER

Mayor John F. Fitzgerald today uttered a severe condemnation of the provisions of the new city charter which permit the civil service commission to turn down any of the mayor's appointments without giving the reasons therefor, and he declared that the responsibility for this condition of affairs rests entirely upon the people who framed the charter.

In speaking of the question today the mayor pointed out the fact that if any one of these appointees is not confirmed, and no reasons are given for not confirming them, this will place a stigma on the business career of these men.

He argued that if such confirmation is withheld, it will be almost impossible to get respectable business men to permit their names to be used and sent to a body which has such unlimited power as has the civil service commission under the new charter.

ARMY ENGINEERS
SURVEY HARBOR

Lieut.-Col. Edward Burr, local army engineer, today started several engineers surveying Boston harbor to establish new harbor lines. The engineers will not only survey lines that it is proposed to change on the petition brought by the Hog, Henry M. Whitney for the East Boston, company, but also others with a view to future changes. As soon as the survey is complete a harbor line report, with recommendations by Colonel Burr, will be sent to chief of engineers, Brig.-Gen. William L. Marshall.

CROP DAMAGE EXAGGERATED.

WASHINGTON—The damage to crops in the southern states east of the Mississippi river is not so great as some of the first reports seemed to indicate, according to President Finley of the Southern railway.

BUDGET BILL TODAY
IS IN HANDS OF KING
FOR HIS SIGNATURE

Lords Pass the Measure, That Led to Dissolution of Parliament Without Opposition and in One Sitting.

SPEAKING IS SHARP

LONDON—King Edward today received the budget bill for signature. This is the measure the rejection of which by the House of Lords precipitated the dissolution of Parliament and the recent general election.

The Lords on Thursday night, in a single sitting and without opposition, passed the bill through its last two readings. The failure of the Lords to object further to the measure was due to the conviction that the general election had to a great extent upheld the government in the projects it contains.

There was a large attendance in the House. The proceedings were uneventful, but some eloquent speeches were made. Lord Lansdowne, as leader of the opposition, who was nominally responsible for the rejection of the bill last year, recalled the fact that the Lords had referred the budget to the country, and added:

"We have as honorable men bound by pledges no other course than to acquiesce in the passage of the bill on all its stages tonight."

Lord Lansdowne dwelt much, however, on the notorious difficulties the government had met with in getting a majority for the bill in the House of Commons. Addressing the Earl of Crewe as the government leader, Lord Lansdowne said:

"The Irish asset was so doubtful that for two months you did not dare to bring your budget forward. Not one of you could have told until a very few days ago whether you had a majority or not."

Lord Lansdowne congratulated the government on the success of its diplomacy, which seemed, he declared, to be due to the sort of tactics adopted in Morocco and Somaliland, where allies of doubtful allegiance were brought into line by the offer of certain inducements. The government had capitulated to a faction to whom it had intimated its readiness to overturn the constitution by unconstitutional means, without having the smallest idea of what to put in its place.

The high lord chancellor, Lord Loreburn, closing for the government, said:

"We will not live as a government in chains under the bondage of a Conservative majority in this House."

LONDON—The constant reference to the King's constitutional position and his possible action in the present political turmoil, has led Lord Knollys, his private secretary, to write for publication a reply to an inquirer in which he says:

"The King at all times is anxious that his name should be kept out of all controversies of a political nature."

COLUMBUS DAY BILL
PASSES SENATE AND GOES TO GOVERNOR

The state of Massachusetts will have a new holiday, Columbus day, Oct. 12, if Governor Draper signs the bill which went to him today. The measure was finally enacted today by the Senate without dissent and was forwarded immediately to the executive office for Mr. Draper's signature.

Several states now recognize Oct. 12 as a legal holiday and Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey and some others celebrated the day last year for the first time.

The Massachusetts proposal was strongly urged by the Italian citizens of the state, who have also secured the introduction into Congress of a measure looking to the establishment of the day as a national holiday.

Celebrations of the day held in 1909 included the closing of public buildings, schools and business houses and of exercises with speaking and musical programs.

PEASANTS ATTACK
JEWS OF KIEFF

BUCHAREST, Roumania.—The Dimincatu today prints despatches from Kieff stating that hundreds of Jews were massacred there Thursday by the Russian peasantry. Hundreds of peasants from surrounding towns gathered in Kieff, according to the despatches, and invaded the Ghetto.

The Jews appealed to the governor-general for protection, but he ignored them. Women and children suffered alike with the men, the Dimincatu says, and the pogrom was kept up until the last of the Jews had either been killed or had fled from the city. The expulsion of Jews from Kieff began on April 23.

Open Air Play to Be Given for Masonic Home
Woman's Auxiliary will present "As You Like It" by Emerson College graduates at Benton estate, Belmont, Mass.

RESIDENCE OF COL. EVERETT C. BENTON AT BELMONT, MASS.
Section of spacious grounds surrounding the residence of Col. Everett C. Benton at Belmont, where "As You Like It" is to be presented for the benefit of the new Masonic home on evening of May 14.

A BENEFIT dramatic performance for the Masonic home at Charlton, Mass., in which the 150,000 Masons of Massachusetts are at present deeply interested, will be given by the Women's Auxiliary of the Masonic home committee under the auspices of Belmont lodge, A. F. & A. M., on the beautiful estate of Col. Everett C. Benton at Oakley road, Belmont, on the afternoon and evening of Saturday, May 14.

The post graduate class of the Emerson College of Oratory will give "As You Like It" in the evening on the sloping lawn at the south of the house.

Miss Blanche A. Benton, who will be the hostess of the occasion and will have the entire affair under her management and direction, is now perfecting all the arrangements with the cooperation of her father, Colonel Benton, who will throw open the house and grounds including the beautiful old English garden where tea will be served in the afternoon.

The grounds will be illuminated by electric lights for the play which is to be given at 8 o'clock. Miss Benton is the chairman of the Belmont committee and Mrs. Benton is the president of the Women's Auxiliary for Massachusetts, organized to raise funds for the furnishing of the home.

The play is being coached by Walter Bradley Trapp and Mrs. Maud Gatehell Hicks of the dramatic department of the college. Daily rehearsals are progressing favorably and it is thought that dress rehearsals will be held next week.

The grounds will be opened at 4:30 o'clock and from 5 to 7:30 o'clock supper will be served in the old English garden by the young lady friends of Miss Benton. The First Corps Cadets orchestra, under the direction of John B. Fielding, will give a concert from 5 to 7 o'clock in the garden.

Miss Benton wishes to emphasize that the cooking will be done at home by the best of the cooks of Belmont.

The chairman of the various committees are as follows: Mrs. O. F. Carr of the supper committee, Mrs. Warren P. Dudley of the candy table, Mrs. Benjamin A. Harris of the flower table, Mrs. Fred Poor of the tea room committee, and Mrs. George L. Wilson of the lemonade table.

The old English garden where the guests will dine was laid out in 1805 when it was the residence of Eben Preble, an old merchant of Boston and brother of Commodore Preble. There are old oaks, walnuts and tulip trees, one of the latter being 80 feet in height, and a fern leaf beech which is the second

CHARLESTOWN CUT OFF BY BURNING OF
DRAW IN THE BRIDGE

The Boston elevated and surface car service over the big Charlestown draw-bridge between the city proper and Charlestown was tied up at noon today by a fire which caused a loss of $200,000.

When Harry Bolan, draw tender, went into the turret house to open the bridge to let the tug Zetis and the barge Smyrna through he was confronted by a burst of flames which apparently came from the six motors used to operate the draw. Two huge compressed air tanks exploded and broke the retainers of 400 gallons of hydro oil which with the compressed air moves the draw.

The explosion of the tanks and the letting loose of this vast amount of inflammable oil deluged the under works of the draw, and in a few minutes the entire structure was a mass of flames enveloped in clouds of black smoke. The draw, which weighs 1280 tons, was badly charred on the under part, and the tender was taken out of the soft steel of which it is constructed, making it unsafe for all car traffic.

Fireboat engine 47, had four steamers going and three engines were forced to their capacity. The all-out signal was sounded one hour after the first signal. Superintendent of Overhead Traffic Stewart of the Elevated asked Deputy Fire Chief John Grady if cars could be run over the bridge, but Chief Grady would not permit this to be done. The elevated supplied extra surface car

PRESIDENT TAFT
LEAVES TONIGHT

WASHINGTON—President Taft leaves tonight on a long trip. He will be away just one week, returning next Friday in time to enjoy the first garden entertainment this year at the White House. In the week that he is away the President will visit Buffalo, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and St. Louis. At all these cities he will make speeches and at Pittsburgh and St. Louis he will see some league baseball. At Cincinnati the President will have an opportunity to attend the May festival and hear some fine singing.

MR. TAFT AND CHINESE PRINCE
EXCHANGE DIPLOMATIC NOTES

WASHINGTON—It developed today that the meeting at the White House between Prince Tsai-Tao and President Taft had a very important diplomatic bearing aside from the extension of courtesies from one official to another. The prince delivered to the President a significant greeting from the Regent, his brother, and received from President Taft in return a message directly bearing on the Manchurian situation as it has developed in this administration.

President Taft told Prince Tsai-Tao that he wished a special message conveyed to the Regent thanking him for having allowed the United States to participate in the Chinese loan, a step which the President said had increased greatly the prestige of the United States in the far east.

"We now have a voice with the other nations of the world in far eastern matters," the President added. The United States had the Regent to thank, Mr. Taft said, for this important development.

Just prior to the President's address, embodying the message to the Regent, Prince Tsai-Tao had said, through his interpreter, that the reason he visited the United States first of all nations in his tour around the world was because of his sympathy with the present friendship shown to China by the United States. The inference was strong that the prince regarded the United States as China's best friend, and furthermore that he felt authorized to speak his mind frankly.

Prince Tsai with his secretaries today visited the navy yard, where the big guns are made, the army war college, the Capitol and the Congressional library. He had luncheon with Secretary Knox and then boarded the Mayflower for a trip to Mt. Vernon. Lord Li, son of Li Hung Chang, six feet tall and weighing 200 pounds, seemed to like the strenuous program. He spends most of his time translating American jokes for the imperial prince. The party will visit Annapolis tomorrow.

COURT DEFAULTS
MAYOR OF SALEM

SALEM, Mass.—Arthur Howard, the mayor, called in the poor debtor court today, failed to answer and was defaulted. The next step, under the usual procedure, is to apply to the clerk for a certificate for his arrest. Just when this will be done is not known.

The case is the one in which William C. Hoare and others entered suit Saturday against the mayor, to recover the amount of a judgment against the mayor, given in 1908, in a New York court, and amounting to $173.04, which judgment was never satisfied. The complainants brought suit to recover with interest.

PORTRAIT OF LADY
GIVEN TO MUSEUM

"Portrait of a Lady" by Nicholas Maes, signed and dated 1670, has been given to the Museum of Fine Arts by Mrs. W. Scott Fitz, who has recently given also a fine portrait by Goya.

This painting has received enthusiastic praise from artists in Boston and is valued at $17,000.

LETS CONTRACTS FOR ARMY SUPPLY

Capt. Robert H. Rolfe, army depot quartermaster in Boston, today awarded contracts for over $20,300 worth of clothing for soldiers of the regular army to be delivered at the Boston depot before June 30. The awards are expected to be forerunners of more contracts.

F. E. Webb, 67 Summer street, Boston, is to furnish 25,000 pairs of white gloves at 15½ cents a pair and 25,000 pairs of $68.02.50. H. M. Sawyer & Son, of East Cambridge, 1000 pondmel slickers to cost $1835; Henry T. Kent, of Clifton Heights, Pa., 68,000 pairs of light woolen shoe kings a total cost of $8945.54, and Samuel Parsons Company of Cohasset, N. Y., 3000 light woolen undershirts to cost $2392.

RECORD COD ON EXHIBITION.

What is thought to be the largest cod ever brought to T wharf is today on exhibition in the window of the Quincy market fish dealer. The fish weighs 100 pounds, is five feet, nine inches long and the body is much thicker than that of the average man. It was caught in South channel Wednesday by one of the schooner Manhasett's crew.

QUEEN WILHELMINA
AND DUTCH CONSORT
MEET EX-PRESIDENT

Royal Pair Sends Automobile to Station at Arnhem and Several Hours Are Spent at Country Palace.

AMSTERDAM DINNER

(By a Staff Correspondent of the United Press.)
ARNHEM, Netherlands—After a four hours' ride through the most beautiful country they have yet seen, Colonel Roosevelt and his family arrived here at noon today.

There was an ovation for the ex-President at every station, culminating with one here by several hundred Americans and 10 times their number of natives.

Awaiting the party at the station were two of Queen Wilhelmina's automobiles, in which they were driven to the Het Loo palace of the Queen, a short distance from Apeldoorn, 17 miles north-east of Arnhem.

The reception by the Queen and her consort, Prince Henry, was unusually cordial. After luncheon there was an informal visit about the palace grounds with the Queen honoring her guests by acting as their personal escort.

At 3 o'clock the Roosevelts motored to Apeldoorn and at 5 o'clock they took a special train for Amsterdam.

A dinner will be given in honor of the Roosevelts at the Queen's Amsterdam palace tonight, at which the burgomaster will preside. There will be 40 guests. At 11 o'clock the party will leave for The Hague, remaining there until Sunday night.

BRUSSELS—Ex-President Roosevelt and his family left here this morning at 7 o'clock for Holland after one of the most enthusiastic welcomes and series of entertainments ever given a foreigner on Belgian soil.

More than 2000 people attended the reception to Mr. Roosevelt at the Hotel de Ville, which is the most interesting edifice in Brussels and one of the most beautiful buildings of the kind in Belgium, dating back to the fifteenth century. When the ex-President arrived, a procession, headed by Burgomaster Max, with Mrs. Roosevelt on his arm, was formed. The party then passed through the beautifully decorated salons, being saluted on all sides.

"It has always seemed to me," he said, "that the Belgian people offer one of the great examples of hope presented by any people of the world at the end of the nineteenth century. Flanders was one of the greatest industrial centers of the middle ages. Now you are rivaling and surpassing the work of your ancestors."

NEW BRIDGE NEEDED
ON WEYMOUTH BACK
RIVER, SAYS REPORT

That the citizens of Weymouth, Hingham and Quincy should have time to consult the Massachusetts Legislature over the new bridge, which, it says, is needed over the Weymouth Back river on Lincoln street, Hingham, is the gist of the report sent today to Chief of Engineers Brig.-Gen. William Marshall by the local army engineer, Lieut.-Col. Edward Burr.

The report is the result of a public hearing held before Colonel Burr April 8 in the Federal building at which a strong protest against changes involving expense by the citizens of these three places was made.

The navy department asked that the draws in the bridge be widened from 24 to at least 50 feet. The army engineers, the report says, found that automobile traffic was heavy over the bridge. Colonel Burr took this and future conditions into consideration in making his recommendation for a new bridge.

It was ascertained that the navy department could do without the requested changes for the next 18 months and with this in view Colonel Burr recommended the extension of time from Dec. 31, 1910, to at least a year hence.

NEWSPAPER MEN
AT ANNUAL FEAST

NEW YORK—Seven hundred newspaper representatives from all over the United States gathered at the Waldorf-Astoria Thursday night to enjoy the annual banquet of the Associated Press and the Newspaper Publishers' Association. N. C. Wright, editor of the Cleveland Leader, was toastmaster and the chief speaker of the evening was Mayor William J. Gaynor. Herman Ridder, president of the Newspaper Publishers' Association, introduced the toastmaster.

BOSTON UNIVERSITY
PRESIDENT TO HOLD
CLOSING RECEPTION

President William E. Huntington, Who Retires This Year From Office, Meets
Students Today.

PROM GIVEN TONIGHT

Gamma Delta Room at College of Liberal Arts Is Finished and Furnished in Time for Gathering.

Two events of importance in the social life of Boston University take place today. They are the farewell reception of President William E. Huntington and Mrs. Huntington to the students, and friends, the alumni and trustees, which will be held in the newly furnished Gamma Delta room this afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock and the junior prom, which will be held this evening in Horticultural hall. President Huntington will retire from his service at the university in June.

Since the beginning of his presidency it has been Dr. Huntington's custom to give four annual receptions in the different departments of the university—at the medical school, East Concord street, at the law school in Isaac Rich hall, Ashburton place, at the theological school, Mt. Vernon street, and at the department of liberal arts, on Boylston street.

The reception today is the last for this year, and hence the final one at which Dr. Huntington and his wife will be host and hostess. Relations at the university between the president and the students have been most cordial, due in great part to the president's course on "Collegiate Life," given to the freshman class, which has brought him into personal contact with every student in the entering class, and offered opportunities for them to benefit by his practical friendliness and interest.

It is expected that many alumni and friends will be present, in addition to the undergraduates, to enjoy once more President and Mrs. Huntington's hospitality and to express their appreciation of all that they have meant to Boston University.

The junior prom is the principal event of junior week. A reception and concert will be held between 8 and 9 o'clock, previous to the dance. The patronesses are Mrs. E. Charlton Black, Mrs. John P. Marshall, Mrs. Norton A. Kent and Mrs. J. E. Springfield.

The ushers are Albert J. Dow, Harold

FREIGHT FRANCHISE
WITHOUT LIMIT MAY COME BEFORE COURT

A question which may have to be decided in the supreme court as to the right of either the Massachusetts board of railroad commissioners or a city council to grant an unlimited franchise to street railway companies to carry freight, was before the board of railroad commissioners today.

The Worcester Consolidated Street Railway Company has secured such a right in many cities and towns, but in Worcester this right could not be secured. The mayor and the city solicitor said that in any franchise that was granted there should be a time limit; and refused to grant it save with this provision. The matter was then taken to the Legislature and nothing was secured there.

Under the law, when a petition is filed with a city government and no action is taken on it for 60 days, the petitioner or any party interested may bring the matter before the board of railroad commissioners. The Worcester Merchants Association, through E. E. Dodge, brought the matter before the railroad commissioners. T. H. Dewey, president of the Worcester Consolidated railway, favored the action before the railroad commissioners.

City Solicitor Vaughn of Worcester stated that he was having a trolley franchise drawn up on which the city government of Worcester would take action on May 9. Charles T. Tatman, president of the Worcester Board of Trade, said that the board favored the attitude of the city and was opposed to the action before the railroad commissioners. Both City Solicitor Vaughn and President Dewey agreed that all points saving that of the time limit could be settled. City Solicitor Vaughn expressed his intention of going to the supreme court on any order granting an unlimited franchise.

The hearing was continued on this basis.

News of the World Told by Cable and Correspondence

STEAMSHIP LINE DISPUTE NOT DEFINITELY SETTLED

(Special to The Monitor.)
LONDON—The question of the future of the South African shipping trade is attracting considerable attention. Nothing has as yet been stated definitely as to the outcome of the dispute between German and British lines, nor have the terms of the new mail contract been as yet arranged. With regard to the latter question it is considered highly improbable that the contract will go to any other than the Union & Castle Company. There is another question, however, which is causing some uneasiness. The movement of which Mr. de Wet, minister of agriculture of the Orange River Colony and consequently a large grower of maize, is the leader has been started in South Africa with the object of countering the measures taken by the shipping companies, resulting in the increase of freight rates on maize. It is a generally accepted fact that the maize industry will in all probability be of the greatest importance to South Africa in the future. The freight charged, however, by the shipping companies cannot be said to be a paying one. The low rate of $2.24 a ton is eminently satisfactory to the maize exporters but by no means so to the shipping companies. The rate was fixed at this low figure on the recommendation of Sir Donald Currie, the main object being to secure for the industry a good footing in the European markets.

A letter was forwarded recently by the secretary of the South African steam conference to the chairman of the Merchants company which he stated that while the lines have every desire and intention to protect their loyal supporters against lower rates that may be charged by steamers other than those of the British conference line, it is obviously impossible to define beforehand the method of protection which will be adopted.
The secretary of the committee has replied to the effect that while appreciating the assurances given by the conference they do not consider the question settled to their satisfaction.

Save Temple From Ravages of Egyptian Sand

CAIRO—The rock hewn temple of Abou Simbel, which is situated on the banks of the Nile, some miles north of the second cataract, is one of the most magnificent specimens that even the wonderland of Egypt has to show. Built by Rameses the Great about 1400 B. C. to celebrate one of his greatest victories, it is a marvel of colossal conception and construction. It is hewn out of the solid rock to a depth of nearly 200 feet and a height of over 50. The magnificent portico consists chiefly of four colossal seated figures of the Rameses, each 66 feet high. The columns supporting the roof in the interior also consist of gigantic figures of the same gentleman, while the gods, to whom the temple is primarily dedicated, are cast in a somewhat lesser mold. The temple faces due east, and at dawn it is an impressive sight to see the first beam of sunlight piercing the entrance and lighting up the high altar at the western end of the temple. To the ancient Egyptians, who worshipped the sun, the sight must have been awe-inspiring in its impressiveness. Recent restorations and repairs have insured this temple against the ravages of time and the desert sand, and it should stand for many centuries to come, a lasting monument to a great king, a great architect, and one bound to conclude, a great egotist.

WILL BUY EQUIPMENT.

(Special to The Monitor.)
WELLINGTON—Sanction has been given by the New Zealand government for military equipment to be purchased to the amount of $250,000. According to the prime minister, Sir Joseph Ward, it will be necessary to spend $300,000 on equipment in order to put the defense scheme on a working footing, $175,000 on ammunition, and $25,000 on stores and magazines.

CITY DESIGNERS SOON TO COMPETE FOR NEW CAPITAL

(Special to The Monitor.)
MELBOURNE, Vic.—Arrangements are being made for the completion of the survey of the federal capital site. It is expected that in about six weeks' time the survey will be completed, after which the competition for the best designs for the city will commence. The competition will also include plans for public buildings. It is understood that the first permanent buildings to be erected will be the library and the legislative chambers.

LORD KITCHENER A FIELD MARSHAL

King Edward Hands Him Baton at Audience and He Will Take Charge of the Mediterranean Forces.

LONDON—King Edward handed Lord Kitchener the baton of field marshal at an audience at Buckingham palace Thursday. The government seems to have decided definitely that Lord Kitchener shall take up the Mediterranean appointment in spite of the popular clamor in favor of placing him at the head of the home forces.

In the House of Commons Richard Burdon Haldane, secretary of state for war, stated that it was proposed that Lord Kitchener should shortly commence his duties as field marshal and commander-in-chief of the Mediterranean with headquarters at Malta.

COST OF WARSHIP CONSTRUCTION UP

LONDON—The comparison of the respective cost of construction of American and British battleships made by Rear Admiral Bowles, U. S. N., retired, which showed that the former was considerably less, formed the subject of a question put to Reginald McKenna in the House of Commons Thursday. The first lord of the admiralty was unable to say why the cost was lower in the protected country than in free trade England.

In this comparison there is no standard of quality, but speaking of merchant ships, Admiral Bowles admitted that the United States could not compete with British and German firms.

BOSTONIAN HEADS ROAD FOR MEXICO

HERMOSILLO, Mex.—The Arizona, Mexico & Gulf of California railroad has been incorporated, with Benjamin P. Cheney of Boston as president, to operate a line from a connection with the Southern Pacific in Arizona across the Altar district of Sonora to Port Lohor on the Gulf of California, a distance of about 200 miles.

COLLIERY STRIKE CALLED OFF.
SYDNEY, N. S.—The strike in the Cape Breton colliery districts has been called off by the United Mine Workers of America. It began July 6, 1909.

TO OPEN NORD-SUD RAILWAY IN COMING JULY

(Special to The Monitor.)
PARIS—It is believed that the Nord-Sud railway, or at least that part of it between Versailles and the station of La Rue de Pae, perhaps even as far as Notre-Dame-de-Lorette, will be opened in July next. A few days ago a special train, in which were M. Bechmann, a director, various members of the Nord-Sud Company, and several guests, made a trip satisfactory in every way over a portion of this section of the line.

SIR GEORGE REID VISITS BRISTOL

(Special to The Monitor.)
LONDON—The Australian high commissioner, Sir George Reid, spent an interesting morning recently visiting the fine accommodation for vessels at the Royal Edward docks, Bristol. Sir George was accompanied by the lord mayor, among others. Australians, he said, had no idea of the facilities that existed for reaching British markets, and his countrymen should certainly have the information sent to them. Sir George Reid was the principal guest at the banquet of the British Chamber of Commerce, when in the course of a speech he spoke in the highest terms of the endeavor of the city of Bristol to restore that town to its former position among the great ports of the world.

M. ISVOLSKY NOW TAKES VACATION

(Special to The Monitor.)
MUNICH—M. Isvolsky arrived here a few days ago to join Madame Isvolsky, who is staying with her mother, Countess Toll. The Russian foreign minister is on his way to Frankfurt, whence he will travel to Switzerland, returning to Russia via Munich. When passing through Berlin M. Isvolsky saw no one with the exception of the members of the embassy and it is said that there is not the slightest ground for supposing that the Russian foreign minister will meet the German chancellor during his travels.

HUNGARIAN LOAN MADE.

(Special to The Monitor.)
BUDAPEST—The 4 per cent Hungarian state loan of about $23,450,000 has been subscribed more than two and one half times over. Applicants for large amounts of "free" stock are being admitted to about 20 per cent of the amount applied for.

TOURISTS MAY USE WATERWAYS IN TRAVELING ACROSS EUROPE

(Special to The Monitor.)
LONDON—It may be stated that the utility or efficiency of the many modes of travel in vogue today is measured by the speed that can be obtained by the express train, motor car, ship or air-vessel. There are, however, many people who do not consider that high speed traveling is the most enjoyable means of getting from one place to another. Among such are included those who prefer to enjoy the scenery along the route they traverse, and for that reason prefer to travel at a less rapid rate. It will soon be possible for those who desire so to do to travel across Europe by water. Basle and the North sea are already connected by the Rhine, and the Swiss Association for Navigation from the Rhine to the Rhine have undertaken the task of linking up Basle and Geneva, utilizing the River Aar as well as the lakes of Neuchâtel, Morat and Yverdon. Thus the road, or we should say, the waterways will be opened from the North sea to Geneva.

In addition to the scheme of the Swiss association, however, the Paris municipality has announced its intention of carrying out such alterations as will render the River Rhone navigable between Geneva and Marseilles. As to whether this route when completed will be used for commercial purposes remains to be seen, but it is a practical certainty that a number of persons will gladly avail themselves of this unique opportunity of traveling through such varied scenery in a leisurely and comfortable manner. With regard to the question of commerce, the speed with which the goods will be carried from point to point will, of course, not compare with the speed of the train. There is, however, another question to be considered, that is the question of freight. It is common knowledge that freight by water is very much cheaper than freight charged by railway companies, and it is in this connection that there will be, perhaps, competition not altogether adverse to the waterway authorities.

PREMIER LUZZATTI SUBMITS PROGRAM TO ITALY'S CHAMBER

ROME—Premier Luzzatti laid before Parliament Thursday the cabinet's program. Summarized, he said the aims of the government were for justice, liberty and culture.

The ecclesiastical policy was one which would provide for freedom in religious matters, leaving intact the sovereignty of the state. An electoral reform was proposed which would give the right to vote to all citizens of age on the condition that they were able to read and write. The primary schools of Messina and Reggio would be placed under the direction of the state as an experiment in public instruction.

The premier announced that there will be a revision of the fiscal system and democratic reforms that would result in benefit to the working classes. A reformation of the Senate had been determined upon, he said, the initial step being a change that would permit the Senate to elect its own president and board of presidency, which is now chosen by the King.

Touching on the maritime conventions, which caused the fall of the last two cabinets, M. Luzzatti said that it was proposed to appoint a parliamentary commission which should make a study to determine the best solution of the problem.

WANTS TO BE FREE FROM RACIALISM

(Special to The Monitor.)
ESTCOURT, Natal—The prime minister of Natal, Mr. Moore, has commenced his campaign proclaiming Natal's non-racial policy with regard to the union. He expressed the hope that the union would protect every industry that might be established in South Africa, and he appealed for cooperation under any government whatever for the purpose of making South Africa a white man's country. He pointed out further that the days of depression had passed, and that prosperity was seen on every side. He hoped also that Natal would continue to be free from racialism.

WANT SETTLERS FOR MAORI LANDS

(Special to The Monitor.)
WELLINGTON—The New Zealand government has drawn up some detailed regulations in connection with the settlement of the Maori lands, which are, it appears, not being occupied as fast as is desired. The trade and industry of the Dominion are in an exceedingly good condition, the exports for the year ending March 31 exceeding by no less than $22,500,000 those of the previous year.

WILL PROROGUE PARLIAMENT ON MAY ELEVENTH

(Special to The Monitor.)
OTTAWA, Ont.—The announcement from the government house that the state will take place on May 10, also means that Parliament will be formally prorogued on May 11. Government business is accordingly being rushed forward, and it is expected that there will be a rapid clearance of the order paper in the next two weeks. The premier, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, has given notice of a motion to begin Saturday sittings.

TO COMPLETE LINE ON SCHEDULE TIME

(Special to The Monitor.)
VANCOUVER, B. C.—Evidence of the intention of the Canadian Northern railway to fulfill its agreement with respect to construction is apparent in the active preparations to begin work before the time specified, and unless untoward conditions arise it is expected that the line will be completed through the province and on Vancouver island on schedule time. It is announced that construction will begin from Victoria toward Barkley sound, and from New Westminster eastward on the main line about the 1st of June. Clearing operation will soon begin on the Canadian Northern townsite on the Fraser river, which is to be called Port Mann, in honor of D. D. Mann, vice-president of the company.

INCREASE IN COAL OUTPUT.

(Special to The Monitor.)
PIETERMARITZBURG—The average monthly output of coal in Natal about a year ago was about 140,000 tons, and it is interesting to note to what extent the output has increased, when it is realized that, during the month of February last, the shortest month in the year, the collieries produced 188,500 tons of coal as against 137,922 tons the previous year.

BRITISH CLAIM REJECTED.

(Special to The Monitor.)
ST. PETERSBURG—The claim of the owners of the British ship, Hipsiang, which was sunk by a Russian warship in Pigeon bay during the Russo-Japanese war during 1904, has been finally rejected by the supreme prize court presided over by minister of marine. The decision of this court confirms the original decision of the Libau prize court.

BRITISH ARTISTS ENTER PROTEST TO NEW BRIDGE

(Special to The Monitor.)
LONDON—The scheme for building a new bridge across the Thames and making an approach therefrom to the south side of St. Pauls cathedral, is rousing considerable comment in artistic and engineering circles. There is no doubt that the undertaking creates the possibility of a magnificent architectural success or an equally remarkable failure. No doubt if a bridge in any way worthy of the site were constructed, and the approach to the cathedral from the river were made on a proper scale, the scheme would add immensely to the beauty of the capital. English artists, however, have seen so many extraordinary engineering works called bridges erected across the river, that they are a little alarmed at the new prospect.

INVENTOR MAKES DEMONSTRATION OF WIRELESS SYSTEM

(Special to The Monitor.)
LONDON—Another demonstration was given recently of the system of wireless telephony evolved by Mr. Grindell-Matthews by which reference was made some time ago. This system requires neither poles nor high towers, nor Hertzian waves, neither are induction principles employed. The energy, instead of being distributed in all directions at once can be sent out in any given direction. It appears that the system has been somewhat modified since the last demonstration was made; the discoverer of the system claims that communications will be easily maintained between land and a ship in motion or between air vessels and the land, or for the purpose of maintaining communications between moving bodies of troops. Indeed it appears that the system will be valuable in a countless number of ways. The discoverer has already spoken from 7 1/2 miles at sea and he has also maintained communications with a motor car on a track traveling at the rate of 45 miles an hour. It is understood that further experiments are to be carried out in the near future in the Bristol channel.

Japanese Erect Bank in Honolulu

NEW BANK BUILDING.
Interior is finished in Italian marble.

(Special Correspondence of The Monitor.)
HONOLULU—The new building of the Honolulu branch of the Yokohama Specie Bank, Honolulu, opened for business April 14, 1910. This is constructed of enamel brick and stone with interior, including the desks for use of depositors, in Italian marble. It is considered the most beautifully finished structure in Honolulu and cost $100,000. The manager, Mr. Toyoda, held a reception to white residents from 10 until 12 on the opening day and to Chinese and Japanese during the afternoon hours. The Hawaiian government band and a quintet club discoursed Hawaiian airs during the reception. All of the men connected with the banks of Honolulu as officials assisted the manager at the reception.

The branch was started in Honolulu in 1892 in a private house in the residence district. With the influx of the Japanese the business of the institution has grown enormously and the handsome building is the result. The system on which the bank is conducted is entirely different from that in vogue in America.

FOOTBALL CHANGES AGAIN BEFORE THE RULES COMMITTEE

Experimental Work Done by Coach Stagg of Chicago Expected to Play an Important Part.

AT PHILADELPHIA

PHILADELPHIA—For the third time this year the football rules committee will meet to consider what changes shall be made in the code as it existed in 1909. Six changes have already been made, and any others that may be enacted will not in any way affect those already passed. The sessions are being held at the home of the University Club.

Since the last meeting of the committee on April 26 the larger colleges, notably Chicago, Harvard and Yale, have devoted considerable time in trying out the changes already made with a view to seeing what effect they will have on the game, as well as giving some light on what further changes may be made. This has been especially true in Chicago, where Coach A. A. Stagg, an old Yale graduate, has had two eleven men practise trying out the ideas which Walter Camp gave at the previous meeting of the committee.

Most of the discussion will relate to the forward pass. Coach Stagg stands as the champion of the forward pass in a slightly modified form, which he believes will give it a greater popularity than ever before on college grids. After more extensive experiments than those made by the other coaches he goes before his fellow committee members with a notebook full of reasons why the forward pass should be retained.

Followers of the game are looking for a number of new rules. Two matters that have not yet been touched and certainly should receive attention if the game is going to be made less objectionable are the penalizing of a runner crawling with the ball as well as an opposing player jumping on another after he has been downed.

Other possible changes are the abolishing of the kickoff for the purpose of avoiding collisions, allowing a player to enter the game again after having been removed, cutting out the goal after touchdowns as an unfair feature, making the value of a drop kick more than that of a place kick in order to put a premium on drop kicking, and calling the ball down whenever the man with the ball touches the ground with any part of his hand other than his feet and one hand.

The six rules already passed have weakened the offense, and it will be the effort of the committee to remedy this. No matter which forward pass faction wins the offense will be strengthened.

BOWDOIN WINS FROM NORWICH

NORTHFIELD, Vt.—In one of the most hotly contested games of the season Bowdoin defeated Norwich, 10 to 9. Norwich outplayed Bowdoin after the first inning, and lost chiefly because of disaster in that period, when the visitors secured five runs. The Norwich players proved themselves good run-earners and overcame their opponents' long lead by steady game.

The score stood 9 to 7 in favor of the home team at the end of the seventh inning. Bowdoin made a desperate rally in the eighth and tied the score, and another run in the ninth gave them the lead. With the bases full and two out Earle drove out a long fly which was smothered by Brooks in right field, saving Bowdoin from certain defeat.

The features were the all-round playing of Gordon and Murray in the infield for Norwich, and the plucky playing of Purington, the Bowdoin center fielder, who continued in the game after sustaining painful injuries. The score:

Bowdoin..... 5 1 1 0 0 0 2 1-10 11 6
Norwich..... 1 1 0 1 0 2 4 0-9 10 5

Batteries, Sigfield, Davis and Wilson; Berry and Murray. Umpire, Smith.

TECH RELAY TEAM LEAVES.

Technology's one-mile relay team left this morning for Philadelphia where they meet Syracuse University tomorrow at the Pennsylvania relay games. The men taken on the trip were Coach Frank M. Kany, Capt. William C. Salisbury, Leonard O. Mills '11, Peter D. White '11, Richard H. Gould '11 and Harvey S. Benson '12, substitute and manager. The race was originally intended to be a three-cornered affair between Technology, Wesleyan and Syracuse, but the Wesleyan team has been withdrawn on account of a dual meet, and so far no opponent has been substituted. Syracuse and Tech will now have a chance to prove which has the better team.

CORNELL TRACK MEN BUSY PREPARING FOR PENNSYLVANIA MEET

ITHACA, N. Y.—This week has been one of the hardest that the candidates for the Cornell varsity and freshman track candidates have had this year. Coach Moakley has been driving his men hard in preparation for the Pennsylvania relay games which come tomorrow and the dual meet with Pennsylvania May 7.

Three teams leave today for Philadelphia to take part in the big relay carnival and the undergraduates are anxiously awaiting the outcome of the races, especially the four-mile in which Cornell has entered a very strong team.

Coach Moakley has not yet definitely decided just how the men will run and will probably not make any announcement until just before the start. The positions have been drawn for the three events and Cornell has been unfortunate in drawing eighth in the one-mile and fourth in both the two and four-mile races.

While the undergraduates in general expect to see Cornell showing up better than generally expected in the coming meets, they realize that even a coach of Moakley's ability cannot make a championship squad out of the material at hand this year. The loss of L. F. Talbot and E. C. Cook cannot be made up this season.

Although it is a far cry to 1911, the outlook for a strong team that year is very encouraging. The present freshman class has one of the most promising lot of track candidates that has appeared at Ithaca in some time, and it is expected that Trainer Moakley will have little difficulty in developing a number of point-winners from its ranks.

MANY ENTRIES FOR GLASS MEET

The annual Harvard interclass track games will be held in the stadium tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. One hundred and forty-two men have been entered for the meet. The number is greater than last year in spite of the fact that the freshman team will compete against Exeter, so that the entries from that class are small. The class captains are: 1910, F. M. deSelding; 1911, H. Jaques, Jr.; 1912, W. H. Fernald; 1913, H. P. Lawless.

The first three men to finish in each event will receive class numerals and the first two will receive cups. First place in each event will count five points, second three, and third place one. The events are as follows: 100-yard dash, 220-yard dash, 440-yard dash, 880-yard run, one-mile run, two-mile run, 120-yard hurdles, 220-yard hurdles, high jump, broad jump, 16-pound hammer-throw, 16-pound shot-put, and pole-vault.

LAKE GETS SHARPE AND FROCK.

Manager Fred Lake of the Boston Nationals closed a deal Thursday with Manager Fred Clarke of Pittsburgh whereby Pitcher White of Boston goes to the latter club in exchange for First Baseman Sharpe and Pitcher Frock. Both Frock and Sharpe were the best players of their respective positions in the Eastern league last year and are expected to strengthen Boston. Manager Clarke was anxious to get White, as he has always been effective against Chicago.

Washington won an exciting 12-inning contest from the Boston Americans Thursday 2 to 1, it taking 12 innings to return the victor. New York defeated the Philadelphia Athletics in a close 13-inning contest 5 to 2 and forced the latter club to third place. Detroit won another easy game from St. Louis. The Cleveland-Chicago game was postponed.

WASHINGTON WINS CLOSE GAME.

WASHINGTON—Boston lost to Washington Thursday, 2 to 1, in a 12-inning game. Both Johnson and Collins pitched good ball and the game was a close battle from beginning to end. The score:

Batteries, Ford and Sweeney; Combs, Dyett and Thomas and Lapp. Umpires, Dineen and Connolly.

DETROIT HAS EASY VICTORY.

ST. LOUIS—An easy victory was achieved Thursday by Detroit, which won 7 to 1 over St. Louis. Bailey was big hand and his support was indifferent, while Mullin allowed but four hits. Mullin drove in the first two runs for his team with a triple in the third inning. The score:

Innings..... 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 R.H.E.
Detroit..... 0 0 3 0 0 1 0 0-7 10 1

DARTMOUTH WINS EXCITING GAME

HANOVER, N. H.—The Dartmouth baseball team won the third game of its season Thursday, defeating Lafayette 4 to 3. It took 11 innings to accomplish this, however. Poor base-running and errors by the visitors lost them the game. The pitching on both sides was good, Lafayette making seven hits and Dartmouth six.

The first run was made by Dartmouth in the first inning and was the result of sacrifice hits and a base on balls. Not until the eighth were any more runs made, the visitors then earning one.

In the tenth two more were made by Lafayette on hits by Kelley and Lemott, the latter making a two-bagger. Dartmouth then came to bat and tied the score, Coggins and Norton making singles in this inning. A hit by Chadbourne in the next inning allowed Hoban to come home, closing the most exciting game seen at Hanover in years.

Demott made one of the longest drives ever hit here and would have scored a home run had he not been called out for not touching third. The score:

Innings..... 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 R.H.E.
Dartmouth..... 1 2 0 0 0 0 0 0-2 14 5 7
Lafayette..... 0 0 0 0 0 0 1 0-3 7 4

Batteries, Eckstrom, Gammon and Chadbourne; Foger and Matson. Umpires, O'Reilly.

CONCORD SCHOOL TO HAVE AN EIGHT

Middlesex Will Not Only Have Regular Four, but Is to Have Larger Crew for First Time.

CONCORD, Mass.—Middlesex school will be represented by another fast four-oared crew this spring. This school has lost but one race in the last three years, defeating all the best crews from the Boston Interscholastic Rowing Association and winning from the Harvard freshman four in 1908 and 1909. Owing to faculty restrictions all races with Boston schools must be rowed on Bateman's pond, Concord, and since no return matches are allowed on the Charles, no races are scheduled with the city crews this season.

F. H. Trumbull '10 of Salem is stroking the crew for the second year. Behind him, at 3, L. O. Mills '10 of Portland, Ore, a new man of much promise, is doing excellent work. W. F. Trumbull, Jr., '11 of Salem, a veteran of last year's championship crew, is again at 2, and is the most powerful oar in the boat. R. D. Walker '10 of Malden is showing good form at bow and A. Cameron '12 of Weston is a light and capable coxswain. R. H. Howe, Jr., an old Harvard coxswain, is again coaching the crew, assisted by graduates prominent in rowing at Harvard today.

For the first time in Middlesex rowing an eight will be formed and will meet one of the freshman crews on the Charles.

RATIONAL GOLF BY JASON ROGERS.

A proposition to hold an annual competition only open to professionals' assistants, club makers and apprentices, is meeting with a very popular reception in England just now. The scheme has been proposed for the purpose of encouraging a class from which the great professionals of the future will probably come, and who seldom get a chance to participate in an open championship. In the first place they can seldom get away when the professional is off duty and in the second place they seldom can afford the expense of a futile effort to gain cash rewards in competition with the topnotcher professionals.

The professional himself needs not to be told that the ranks of apprentices and assistants include many fine golfers, says Golf Illustrated in speaking of the proposed competition. Amateurs who are in the habit of playing on many different greens, and who are wise enough now and then to take out one of the local professional's men or boys for a match, are no less alive to the fact that there is a wealth of good golf blushing more or less unseen in the professional's shop.

In many cases, no doubt, the talent eventually comes to light and brings its possessor an adequate reward. But it is conceivable that in some cases the golfing skill of the assistant suffers from lack of exercise, or pines for want of public competition. The assistant may, it is true, get plenty of opportunity for playing, but he is not always fortunate enough in getting the right sort of play. The benefits which he confers upon the amateur who takes him out are, we imagine, not always reciprocated. A competition such as is proposed by our correspondents would provide just the kind of golf which the assistant requires to improve his own game if he be but a moderate player, and to bring him before the public eye if he be, as many are, a fine player. Such a competition might be the means of producing what recent years have not succeeded in giving us—a boy champion, a "Young Tom" of the twentieth century.

With the cooperation of the Professional Golfers Association, which is already promised, the competition would be assured of a favorable start, and it would only need the support of the assistants themselves to make it an instant success.

That this latter desideratum—the support of the assistants—would depend upon the attitude of their employers, must of course be taken into account; but I anticipate no difficulty here. On the contrary, I can see the professionals taking as keen an interest in the competition as the assistants, and fired with the hope of securing the "assistant's" championship for their own establishment—to say nothing of the bonus which the promoters offer to the professional who brings out the winner.

The Professional Golfers Association, in its zeal for the welfare of the professional, neglects no member of the professional body, but for obvious reasons the competitions which it promotes or conducts are primarily intended for the full-blown professional who depends, as a general rule in these days, more upon his play than his clubmaking capacity for a livelihood.

The assistant, who may be presumed to be learning his trade, and at the same time acquiring what skill he can in the playing of the game, is not regarded as having the same urgent need of competitive golf as his master. At the same time, seeing that the assistant is the master in embryo, and that he will some day blossom into the full-blown professional, the opinion may not unreasonably be expressed that what is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander—or, to put the matter in another form, that the playing side of the assistant's career should be developed concurrently with the other side.

With a competition all to themselves, endowed with a liberal prize fund, and superintended by so energetic and ex-

The New York Nationals defeated Philadelphia in a fast 12-inning game Thursday by a score of 5 to 2, forcing the latter club to fourth place in the league standing. Brooklyn easily turned the tables on Boston in their second game of the series by a score of 10 to 3. Pittsburg added another victory to its list by defeating Cincinnati 5 to 2, while Chicago won a close game from St. Louis, 2 to 1.

13-INNING GAME GOES TO N. Y.

PHILADELPHIA—Thirteen innings were necessary for New York to defeat Philadelphia Thursday, the score being 5 to 2. In the thirteenth inning New York made three singles and a double and scored three runs. Raymond had the better of the pitchers' battle. Although wild at times, he struck out 12 batters. The score:

PITTSBURG CAPTURES HOME GAME.

PITTSBURG—The first appearance of Cincinnati in Pittsburg was made Thursday, when it was beaten by Pittsburg, 5 to 2. A home run by Flynn in the eighth inning with two men on bases, settled the game in favor of the home team. The feature was a sensational one-hand catch by Bescher, which cut off two prospective runs. The score:

MANY CUPS OFFERED FOR RACES OF THE JUBILEE YACHT CLUB

Club Has Many Distinguished Men Enrolled on List Including President Taft and Congressman Gardner—Season Opens Memorial Day.

BEVERLY, Mass.—With one of the most attractive programs in years, the Jubilee Yacht Club will open its racing season on Memorial day and close it on Labor day, with races every holiday, a midsummer race on Aug. 20 and a big open race on July 30. With the exception of July 30, all the races are club races and entries for the power and sail divisions are confined to boats enrolled in the club. The sailing dory races are open to all Beverly owned dories.

Handsome trophies have been prepared for the winners of the various contests. The program as announced by Lawrence P. Stanton, chairman of the regatta committee, provides for racing in two power boat divisions, one for boats over 8 horsepower and the other for boats over 8 horsepower. There will be racing in two sailing divisions, one for yachts over 18 feet and the other for yachts under 18 feet. There will also be a sailing dory class open to all Beverly owned dories.

The club numbers among its members President Taft, Secretary Meyer of the navy, Congressman A. P. Gardner and many prominent members of the summer colony. The club has an exceedingly commodious home on which several thousand dollars was spent last year for improvements. It occupies a commanding location at Sand point and the channel runs by its floats, giving every opportunity for the largest of yachts to run up alongside.

The club office is being made more attractive. One of the features is a fine large photograph of President Taft, bearing his autograph and his best wishes for the club, which was presented last fall by the President. Considerable attention will be paid to the social side of club life this summer and a program of hand concerts, ladies' nights and dances is being arranged.

The trophies to be raced for are as follows: Power boats, under 8-horsepower, winners of races on club dates, Memorial day, Hon. Francis Norwood cup; June 17, Councilor William H. Gove cup; Fourth of July, Senator Clifford H. Bray cup; Aug. 20, Hon. Parker S. Davis cup; Labor day, Mayor

CHAIRMAN L. P. STANTON.
Jubilee Y. C. Regatta committee.

Charles H. Trow cup; all races for the under 8-horsepower class to count for the Vittum trophy, second and third cups for the season winners.

Power boats, over 8-horsepower, John L. Saltonstall cup; second and third club cups to season's winners.

Sailing yachts, over 18 feet, Louis S. Smith trophy, to be won twice; Francis A. Guinivan cup; third club cup.

Sailing yachts under 18 feet, Arthur A. Forness cup, to be won twice; Stephen J. Connelly cup; third club cup.

Sailing dories, Augustus P. Loring, Jr., cup; second and third club cups. Open race, Congressman A. P. Gardner cup; Hon. E. Mark Sullivan cup; Allen Webb cup.

Racing flags will also be awarded for the winners in the season's races.

MELROSE.

Returns just filed by the assessors show that the city population has increased 67 during the past 11 months, making the total number of residents of the city 15,313. The greatest gain in population is seen in Ward 7, where there are 194 new inhabitants. Last year's greatest gain was in Ward 2, which this year shows a slight decrease, but still remains the largest in the city with 2529 residents and 760 legal voters. The assessed polls in the city number 4414 this year, a decrease from last year of 24. The assessors commenced listing the personal property and polls April 1 this year whereas they have heretofore been listed May 1, and it is believed that the increase would have been much larger in another month.

The annual election of officers of the Melrose Women's Club will be held Thursday afternoon. As neither of the two vice-presidents will be able to succeed to the presidency owing to other plans, there will probably be a contest for the head of the ticket.

largest in America, as well as some of the finest purple beeches in the country. There are many rhododendrons, azaleas, and other ornamental and shade trees and shrubs from Japan and other countries, many of which are said to have been set out by Mr. Preble himself. It is said of this garden that English people when visiting this country feel that they are back in England as they stand in the midst of the garbled old oaks and deciduous cypresses.

The Masonic home, "Overlook," located at Charlton, Mass., was built by the Worcester & Southbridge Street Railway Company and cost $325,000. The Masons of the state purchased it last May for $50,000. The building was equipped with every modern convenience, and it was intended to establish a resort to rival anything at Lenox, which is one of the great social centers in the Berkshires.

The home is located on the height of land at Charlton, only 15 miles below Worcester. Every arrangement of the property could hardly have been improved upon had the committee ordered an architect to draw plans for such a home as was contemplated.

Overlook is a two-story structure running across the crest of the hill hundreds of feet above sea level, with two rooms extending to the rear at the east and west ends. In general appearance the building resembles the bungalow type. The estate includes a broad acreage and the view from its verandas and particularly from the observatory in the top of the water tower reveals mile upon mile of charming landscape.

The architecture is of modern type, with heavy field stone balustrade and pillars supporting the veranda roof, heavy buttresses of stone and steps of the same, while the terracing in front of the house is done in the same way.

The main house has a long frontage with a slight break in its straight line, thereby adding to the effect. The piazza is broad and low with ample roof sloping down to keep the sun off and also affording a wide floor area. This runs entirely around both ends of the building, curving around the dining room on the west and about the lounging and billiard room on the east end.

OBJECTS TO SIGNS
DEFACING SCENERY
IN MASSACHUSETTS

The Massachusetts legislative committee on roads and bridges today reopened the hearing on a bill to prohibit the defacement of natural scenery by signs and trademarks, on a petition of Dennis Morrisey, introduced by President Treadway of the Senate. No one appeared in favor of the measure.

A. R. Shattuck of Lenox, who said that he had been a resident there and a voter for 20 years, stated his objections to the bill. He stated that the present law as to the defacing of scenery was put on the statute books a dozen years ago, and under it any citizen may remove an illegal sign from the highway; but under the present bill such a sign could only be removed by the selectmen of towns or the mayors of cities.

The Massachusetts highway commission may give permission under the proposed law to put up signs. He thought the act would be better termed "an act to permit the defacement of natural scenery." No citizen, under this law, may remove such a sign without liability to fine or imprisonment.

Under the law in Massachusetts as it is today, Mr. Shattuck said, our country roads are freer from objectionable signs than those of any other state.

The Stockbridge amendment, which was drawn up after the bill was introduced, he said, brought so much red tape in the removal of signs that the law would be rendered almost useless, so far as it gave any right to remove signs.

He said that under the proposed bill it would be possible to put up "10 miles from such-and-such a merchant's store" above the distance to any place, and this could be brought in under the term of facilitating travel. Those who favor the bill deny that this last assertion is true, as no advertising matter is permitted under the proposed law.

BANKER TO TALK TO CREDIT MEN

The Boston Credit Men's Association will hold its April meeting and dinner at Youngs hotel this evening at 6:30 o'clock. James G. Cannon, vice-president of the Fourth National Bank of the city of New York, will be the guest of honor and address the members on the subject of clearing house loan certificates and substitutes for money.

Mr. Cannon was chairman of the loan committee of the New York clearing house in 1907. He advocates the adoption of an emergency currency, based on clearing house loan certificates in cities where there are sub-treasuries of the United States.

During the few months immediately following the monetary stress of that year Mr. Cannon obtained from every clearing house in the country specimens of various temporary instruments issued by them to relieve their local situations.

PRIZE MONEY GIVEN TO LOUIS PAULHAN
TODAY FOR FLIGHT

LONDON—A check for £10,000 ($50,000) was presented on behalf of the Daily Mail to Louis Paulhan at a luncheon at the Savoy hotel today, while a special cup, valued at 100 guineas ($525), was given to Grahame White as a tribute to his splendid effort.

A purse is now being raised for Mr. White which, it is expected, will reach $10,000.

M. Paulhan returned to London Thursday night by train and received an ovation at the station.

The claim is made for Mr. White that his flight in the dark from Roade was the most striking performance in the contest.

Louis Paulhan's own account of his flight from London to Manchester for the Daily Mail's $50,000 prize on Thursday tells of many difficulties overcome, and indicates that much of his cross-country flight was at a height of about 1000 feet (300 meters).

ELECTRICIANS TO HEAR TALK.
"Sidelights on the Electric Vehicle Situation" and "The Electric Pleasure Vehicle—Our Mutual Interests" are the subjects of two papers by Howard S. Knowlton, New England representative of the Electrical World, and Col. E. W. M. Bailey of S. R. Bailey & Co., Inc., Amesbury, Mass., to be read at a meeting of the Edison Electric Vehicle and Central Station Association at 8 o'clock this evening, at the Edison auditorium, 39 Boylston street.

WASHINGTON—The treasury department has asked Congress to appropriate $4,000,000 to be used in starting immediately the work of fortifying the Panama canal. The fortifications will cost much more than this sum. Forts will be erected at the Pacific and Atlantic entrances.

MR. BALLINGER GOES ON STAND TO DETAIL ALASKA COAL DEALS

that might embarrass him. He declared he did not even know there was any such group as the "Cunningham claims" at the time he took the commission. Subsequently, he said, he learned that several persons with whom he was acquainted were claimants.

He named half a dozen of these, but said he did not know Clarence Cunningham.

"I had no interests in Alaska in any lands, either directly or indirectly," he asserted. "And I have not any today."

Secretary Ballinger said that he had heard favorably of H. K. Love, formerly a special agent, but that his hearsay knowledge of H. T. Jones, another special agent, was "not entirely favorable." Mr. Love was a witness for Secretary Ballinger at the hearing, while Mr. Jones appeared for the "prosecution" and gave testimony distinctly unfavorable to the secretary. The witness said Mr. Jones was guilty of "knocking."

Secretary Ballinger then gave the "lie direct" to Mr. Glavis. Mr. Verrees asked about the conference which Mr. Glavis had with him in December, 1907. "Glavis makes the wilful and deliberate misstatement in his testimony here, that we talked over the Alaska cases and that I mentioned several persons," said Mr. Ballinger. "That is a wilful and deliberate lie."

Explaining his "clear listing" of the Cunningham claims, as commissioner, in January, 1908, the witness said that he and Chief of the Field Division Schwartz looked over Mr. Love's report, made Aug. 2, 1907, and decided that it was favorable to the patenting of the claims, there being no protest in the records.

"I wish to say right here," the witness interjected, "that I believe that those claims should have been clear listed on the record in the department. If I were called upon now to pass on the claims, with the same record before me, I would order that they be clear listed."

"I assume all responsibility for clear-listing these claims. I never had a single one of the Cunningham claimants as client. I had no interest in the cases in any way."

Secretary Ballinger denied that Mr. Glavis had ever said to him that the Love report, on which the Cunningham claims were clear listed, was unreliable. He said his appearance before the House committee in favor of the Cale bill, which provided for the sale of the coal lands, on a gradual scale, instead of their leasing, was with the approval of President Roosevelt. He said Mr. Roosevelt told him at one time when the secretary showed him his annual report favoring this system:

"Well, when Garfield and Pinchot see that, they will go up to the roof, but I guess the roof is strong enough to hold them."

CITY DEPARTMENT REPORTS ARE OUT

The Cambridge park commission's annual report, issued today, recommends that the metropolitan park commission be given control of the Cambridge side of the Charles river basin; also that material taken from the subway be used to fill in low places on the Cambridge shore. Superintendents of Parks John Donnelly reports that the Washington elm is in good condition and likely to survive for many years.

Chief of Police Pullen in his report asks that the city building in Central square, containing police headquarters be remodeled.

The report of the water board urges that an expert be employed to consider utilizing the water in the Charles river basin for street watering, fire protection and manufacturing purposes. The report also calls attention to the fact that $488,000 worth of water bonds will mature this year, which means a great saving in interest and sinking fund requirements. The water board believes that the water rate should be reduced.

NEWTON SUES ON BOND VALIDITY. A bill was brought today in the Suffolk superior court by the Newton Savings Bank against State Treasurer Elmer A. Stevens, seeking to have the court determine the status of two $5000 bonds, the validity of title of which has been questioned by Mr. Stevens.

Two Social Events at University

President's reception and Junior Prom. take place today.

BOSTON UNIVERSITY GAMMA DELTA ROOM.

Newly furnished quarters of college society where the farewell reception of President Huntington takes place today. The painting seen in the illustration is "The Pilgrims' First Sunday in America," by Elizabeth Gardner, for which $8000 was paid.

L. Perrin, William F. Griffin, Carl Springfield and Russell Hatch. On the junior prom committee are Chairman Albert J. Dow, Henry Grimes, Jane Johnnot, Elizabeth Kimpston, May Springfield and William Griffin.

The fact that the assembly room of the Gamma Delta had been completely fitted with furniture, hangings and pictures was a big surprise to the students. The apartment is to be known as the "Gamma Delta room," taking the name from the society, to which every Boston University girl is eligible. The formal opening of the room will take place this afternoon, when President and Mrs. Huntington give their farewell reception. About two months ago it began to be whispered abroad that a committee of wives of faculty members, consisting of Mrs. William E. Huntington, chairman, Mrs. William F. Warren, Mrs. James Geddes, Jr., and Mrs. Foy Spenser Baldwin, had set themselves to refurbish this large room on the ground floor facing the Lenox. Several entertainments were given for the benefit of the Gamma Delta fund, but it was not until last week that the young women suspected the work was so near completion. The furnishings have been chosen with such exquisite taste as to surprise even the most sanguine.

The color scheme is in soft browns, and gives the effect of perpetual sunshine. The walls and ceiling are painted a pale yellow; the portieres and overhangings are a rich golden brown material with tapestry borders; the Axminster rugs are warm fawns and browns. The furniture is Flemish oak. An air of substantiality and quiet elegance pervades the room and the soft, rich colors increase the atmosphere of sociability usual there.

Among the carefully chosen pictures by far the most conspicuous and valuable is "The Pilgrims' First Sunday in America," a new acquisition of the Gamma Delta room, though not of the college. This painting has hung in the president's office, but it has been Dr. Huntington's wish that the young women should enjoy it as soon as they had a room suitable for it.

The picture was painted by Elizabeth Gardner, funds for whose education as an artist were furnished by Maj. J. H. Chadwick, a trustee of Boston University. Miss Gardner subsequently went to Paris, where she married Adolphe Bouguereau, the celebrated French painter. The masterpiece was given to Boston University by Major Chadwick.

The canvas is 7x9 feet. Apart from its artistic merit, which is one of a very high order, the work has great historic interest. It represents the Pilgrims' first Sunday in America. Miles Standish is in the foreground and Peregrine White, the first baby born in the colony, is in a cradle. There are 35 historical figures grouped about the cabin of the Mayflower, including Captain Jones, William Brewster, William Bradford, John Alden and John Carver.

The furnishing of this room is only one of the many evidences of the active good will of the wives of the faculty to the Boston University students. A housing committee has recently been appointed with Mrs. Lyman C. Newell chairman to look after providing suitable rooms for the students. An entertainment committee has also been appointed, with Mrs. E. Charlton Black chairman, to provide good lectures and socials for the students.

EX-CONSUL URGES BUSINESS UNITY

U. J. Ledoux, ex-American consul at Prague, Austria, in charge of the department of business organizations of the International School of Peace, in a lecture today before the school of business administration of Harvard University advocated the establishment of subsidized chambers of commerce in foreign countries and the federation of commercial and industrial associations.

Mr. Ledoux stated that although blessed with a greater number of progressive business men and 9000 variegated business organizations, this country can learn valuable lessons from Europe in commercial unity.

EXPENSE PADDOR CONVICTED. LOS ANGELES, Cal. — For having padded government expense account to the extent of $27.50, James P. Edward H. Clement is the Editor of the Latest Newspaper, Published by a Kingston Street Company.

The Boston Common, a weekly newspaper, made its first appearance today. This paper is to be published every Saturday by the Cooperative Publishing Company of 18 Kingston street, and will sell for 5 cents.

The editor is Edward H. Clement, for years editor of the Boston Transcript, and the executive committee consists of President Ralph Albertson, Treasurer William E. Butler, Secretary Alexander M. Wilson, Robert Treat Paine Jr., and Charles M. Cabot.

The contents for this week's issue include news of the week with articles on the Parkman fund; Theodore N. Vail as the new trustee of the Art Museum; a society to preserve historical memories; gold and the cost of living; Governor Hughes and the supreme court, and various other topics of American and European interest. There is also an article on the milk situation in Boston and several pages follow on current legislation. After this come a few pages of New England notes.

The editorial section deals principally with subjects of interest to Bostonians, including the elevated holding bill, situation of labor, Henry Russell, the better Arbor day, changing football rules, financial review, social and civic affairs, Boston opera, the drama, music, books,

MR. DRAPER FAVORS A SPECIAL BOARD TO SETTLE MILK FIGHT

Governor Draper in a public statement given out this afternoon recommended the appointment of a conference board to settle the milk situation in New England. He stated that he believed that the farmers are willing to arbitrate, and in a matter of such importance, opportunity for arbitration should be promptly arranged.

A canvass today of the large milk contractors of Boston shows that they are not disturbed by the notice which is being sent to producers throughout New England and New York by the Boston Milk Producers' Association relative to cutting off the supply sent daily to Boston. The contractors are unanimous in their assertion that they will take care of all their customers after May 1 as

D. Whiting of D. Whiting & Sons, speaking today on the present aspect of the milk situation, said: "We are not giving in to the demands of the association because we believe that they are excessive. The contractors in Boston are now paying the producers winter prices during the months of April and September in addition to the regular winter period months. This makes only four months during which they get the lower price. They never got winter prices for more than six months before; now they are getting them for eight. You can say for our company that it will have plenty of milk for its customers after May 1."

It was said at the office of H. P. Hood & Co. that as far as could be seen, the firm would be able to take care of all its customers during the summer months to come as during the past. The Hood company, it was said, is now paying the producers winter prices for eight months in the year.

William A. Graustein of Graustein & Co. said: "I can guarantee that all my customers will get their usual supply. I have not yielded to this demand made by the producers because I do not think it is right. We have already made an agreement with them by which they will get 2-3 cents a can more than they have ever got before on an average for the six months of the summer period. The producers and the public seem to have lost sight of this."

John Alden, manager for the Oak Grove Farm Company, said: "We expect to have enough milk after May 1 to supply our customers as usual. There is always more milk in sight in New England and New York around the first of May than at any other time of the year, so that even if the farmers do stop shipping milk to Boston on this date there is no fear of embarrassment. If the supply of milk in Boston falls low we can draw on New York where there is always a big surplus at this time of year."

"Several of the large milk dealers in Boston are receiving more milk than they need for their customers. The excess is made into butter and cheese. If their supply is cut down considerably they still have enough for their customers."

About 300 Boston milk dealers and proprietors of stores in which milk is retailed met at the American house Thursday evening by invitation of the Independent Milk Dealers' Association, and protested against the proposed abolition of dip tanks in stores and protested even more vehemently against the bottle law—or order—which the Boston board of health desires to enforce.

It was claimed that the new law would require the small shop keeper to lay in a large supply of milk bottles at a considerable expense and that the cost of building and maintaining a refrigerating plant necessary to keep hundreds of bottles of milk cool would eat up all the profit derived.

HARVARD TO BUILD NEW BUILDING FOR GERMANIC MUSEUM

The erection of a new and adequate building for the Germanic museum at Harvard, which has been desired for many years by Harvard men as a testimonial to the excellent feeling existing between the German educational institutions and those of this country, and also as a fitting resting place for the valuable gifts contained in the museum, is now assured, it is said at Harvard today, through the recent additional donation of $100,000 by Adolphus Busch of St. Louis.

A site for the building has already been acquired by the Harvard corporation at the corner of Divinity avenue and Kirkland street, nearly opposite Memorial hall and close to the main buildings of the university. Plans for the building are now being drawn by a German architect, and when completed are to be submitted to the corporation for approval.

The total amount subscribed so far is $200,000, of which Mr. Busch has given $250,000; $10,000 is the result of Miss Maude Adams' presentation of "Joan of Arc" in the Stadium last June. "The Emperor William Fund," which was started several years ago, is at present $30,000, completing the total mentioned above.

HOPE TO SAVE MINNEHAHA. NEW YORK—Advises received by the American Transport line bring the news that there is a good opportunity to save the steamship Minnehaha, which went ashore off the Sicily Islands April 18. It may be necessary to cut the vessel in two, however.

WALTHAM COMPANY IS NOT CONCERNED IN THE FEDERAL PROBE

WALTHAM, Mass.—President E. C. Fitch of the Waltham Watch Company, in a statement today said that the Waltham Watch Company has no connection with the watch combine, whose business is now being investigated by the New York grand jury, under the Sherman anti-trust law.

The investigation in New York was brought about in the United States court by the Duerber Watch Case Manufacturing Company of Canton, Ill., against a combination of competitors. The Duerber company charges open efforts to crush its business in an attempt to monopolize the watch-case trade throughout the United States and Canada. The defendants against which the charges are leveled, according to Mr. Fitch, are: The Keystone Watch Case Company, the New York Standard Watch Case Company, the Crescent Watch Case Company, the E. Howard Watch Company, the Philadelphia Watch Case Company, and Theophilus Zurburg and Charles M. Fogg, individually.

President Fitch says: "The Waltham Watch Company is not in any way interested, connected, or combined with this so-called watch trust whose business is now under investigation. None of the officials of the company have received any summons to appear before the federal grand jury in New York, and we know nothing whatsoever about the probe. The Waltham Watch Company is not only not connected with this watch trust, but has no business interest with other watch company. The Waltham Watch Company carries on its business as an individual concern in competition with all other watch companies in the world."

MR. ELDER GETS BIG VERDICT. A verdict of $12,550 was awarded to Charles R. Elder, a Boston lawyer, late Thursday in his suit against the city of Malden for services in the joint suit against the commonwealth following the taking of Spot pond for the metropolitan water system.

EARLY SESSIONS AT STATE HOUSE. The Massachusetts House today adopted an order providing that: the hour of meeting on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays, shall be 10:30 a. m. ## CHARLESTOWN CUT OFF BY BURNING OF DRAW IN THE BRIDGE

Navigation was also interfered with. It was announced this afternoon by the company that as the power has been cut off from the bridge there would be no elevated service to Charlestown until further notice. Surface cars are running in increased numbers to Charlestown by the way of Warren bridge. The elevated trains will continue to run from Dudley street through the tunnel and around the Atlantic avenue loop back to Dudley street and vice versa. Free transfers will be issued on the surface cars for the necessary change of route until the old schedule is resumed.

An official of the Boston Elevated this afternoon said that no traffic would be sent over the bridge until permission was received from the Boston bridge commissioners. Four tugs with barges are tied up above the bridge on the Charles river. One got only partially through one of the Boston & Maine draws, over which that railroad's freight tracks pass, before this happened and remained there, tying up the freight tracks.

This barge will be pulled out of its position as soon as it can be arranged to have it pulled back into the berth it occupied before it was started for the draw of the Charlestown bridge.

AMERICAN TOURISTS' NEW RECORD. NEW YORK—The Hamburg-American liner Amerika, which sails tomorrow morning, will carry more than 700 passengers in her first and second cabins. The officials of the line claim that this breaks the record for American tourists bound for Europe. Among those who will sail will be E. D. Jordan and daughter of Boston.

COLUMBUS AVENUE RESIDENTS ASK FOR CAR SERVICE ANEW

A petition for the restoration of the street-car service between Grove hall and Park street, via Blue Hill avenue and Dudley street transfer station, was filed with the state board of railroad commissioners today by the transportation committees of the South End and the Roxbury Improvement Associations.

They petition "for the restoration of the car line from Grove Hall to Park street, via Blue Hill avenue, Dudley street transfer station, Washington and Northampton streets, Columbus avenue, Berkeley and Boylston streets and the subway."

Since the discontinuance of this line, it is set forth, those living on Columbus avenue from Massachusetts avenue to Berkeley street, in order to reach Dudley street transfer station without change have been obliged to walk to Huntington avenue or Boylston street on the one hand or to Shawmut avenue on the other. They can reach this point via Columbus avenue or Tremont street by transferring at Roxbury Crossing. To reach the subway by the entrance at Boylston street they must likewise resort to lines on neighboring streets.

"Thus this long section of Columbus avenue," the petitioners say, "is without a line of cars direct to the Dudley street transfer station or to Park street via Boylston street and the subway. The result is not only great inconvenience but actual financial loss through the moving away in some instances from Columbus avenue and the immediate vicinity of lodgers who had depended upon the cars that it is desired to have restored, and through the falling off of trade in the vicinity of the Dudley street transfer station."

"If for any reason it should be deemed inexpedient to restore this line, we would petition for a change in the route of the cross-town lines from Grove Hall to the subway, by which the cars would turn from Massachusetts avenue into Columbus avenue instead of continuing to Huntington avenue, as at present, run along Columbus avenue to Berkeley street, Boylston street and the subway."

Fine Building for Engineering Clubs

Architects complete ideal design of edifice for several societies of Boston.

ARCHITECTS' SKETCH FOR PROPOSED ENGINEERS' CLUBHOUSE FOR CITY OF BOSTON.

Picture shows what several societies of New England agree upon as a building satisfying their needs. Plans are subject to modification according to site to be chosen.

DESIGNS of the proposed club building for permanent headquarters and convention auditoriums for many societies of civil engineers and kindred associations in New England have been completed by architects Wheelwright & Haven. These designs are ideal rather than perfected plans, as the site of the building has not been yet decided upon and its character may necessitate changes.

This subject has been under discussion for some time and a committee consisting of representatives from some of the leading engineering organizations in New England chosen in March is at work on the project of bringing such societies together under one roof. The committee will meet again next Wednesday evening.

The proposed building, it is said, will cost about $1,500,000, and a site between Park square and Copley square, facing on two streets, is favored by the Boston Society of Civil Engineers.

REAL ESTATE NEWS

The large four-story brick building, occupied by various businesses, at 524 to 530 Harrison avenue, near Randolph street, has been purchased by Walter H. Gleason, trustee. The total assessment on the parcel, including the 5184 square feet of land, is $14,500, of which the land's share is $6500. The grantor is Sumner Robinson and the title comes through Alfred C. Blaikie.

A block of brick and frame buildings numbered 170 to 174 Norfolk avenue, junction of Shirley and Sherwood streets, Roxbury, have been sold by Dudley Talbot et al. to Jacob Katz. There are more than 11,000 square feet of land, taxed for $4500, and the total assessors' rating is $13,000.

Robert Homans has taken title to the second parcel in the large transactions mentioned in these columns a few months ago whereby a handsome new bank structure is to be erected on Devonshire street, directly opposite the Globe building. This property is numbered 70 to 72 Devonshire street, and was owned by Charles J. Paine et al. trustees. The title came through Thomas M. Smith. There is now on the site a four-story brick structure, occupying 1354 square feet of land, having a total rating of $92,000. The land is assessed for $84,000. The price paid by the new owner was in excess of the value placed by the assessors. The broker was Joseph D. Dillworth, Devonshire building.

OUTLYING DISTRICTS ACTIVE.

Many changes in ownership have gone to record involving property in the Roxbury and Dorchester.

J. J. Billington has sold for F. C. Welch and another, trustees, the 2½ story frame dwelling house and 5225 feet of land numbered 4 Wabon street, near Warren street, Roxbury. Of the total taxed value of $5600, the land carries a rating of $2100. The purchaser is Harry Livingston, who will occupy.

A lot of 11,002 square feet of land and a frame house at 9 Millmont, near Highland street, Roxbury, carrying an assessed valuation of $7900, of which $4400 is on the land, has just passed from Rose McLanney to Anna Gordon.

In West Roxbury a tract of 16,875 feet of land, assessed on a valuation of $1400, located on Poplar, near Heathcote street, has been sold by Fred H. Brown to A. Elizabeth Smith.

Mary J. Caskie and others have transferred to Alice McVey Doonan the title to 3037 feet of land and frame house numbered 357 Bowdoin, near Church street, Dorchester. The assessors rate

ALASKA REPORTS NEW GOLD STRIKE

TACOMA, Wash.—Cablegrams from Alaska announce another important gold mine strike near headwaters of Kuskowim river, 60 miles from Innoko and 100 miles from New Iditarod diggings. One nugget worth $100 and another worth $500 were found on Yankee creek and Fourth of July creek.

The new diggings are 500 miles above Bethel at the mouth of the Kuskowim river, which is navigable for light draft steamers from May to November. A great majority of wage-earners at Tanana and Nome have stampeded to Iditarod and Kuskowim camps.

BOOM MR. CROSBY AS THE SURVEYOR

THE HON. J. HOWELL CROSBY, Massachusetts state senator, who is endorsed for next surveyor of the port.

SENATOR J. Howell Crosby of Arlington was boomed for the position of surveyor of the port Thursday night by President Treadway of the state Senate, at a dinner given by him to the members of the Senate at the Boston City Club.

Mr. Treadway's proposal was greeted with hearty cheers and the members appeared practically unanimous in their endorsement and their pledges to the movement for the appointment.

William A. Murphy acted as toastmaster, and the speakers included Governor Draper, Lieutenant Governor Frothingham, Speaker Joseph Walker of the House, Atty.-Gen. Dana Malone, Collector of the Port of Springfield, Senator Daniel Mahoney of Hampden, J. Howell Crosby of Arlington, James Doyle of Boston, Frank Bennett, Jr., of Saugus.

It is said that the selection of the surveyor will be left substantially to Senator Lodge. Probably Senator Crane will secure in any endorsement which Senator Lodge thinks most desirable. It is known that the name of W. W. Larkin, secretary to Representative Gardner, is being considered.

WELLESLEY GIRLS IN PHI BETA KAPPA

What the Students Are Doing

VASSAR COLLEGE.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y.—Officers of the Christian Association were elected at a meeting held April 26. Marjorie MacCoy of Philadelphia, Pa., was chosen president; Helen Congdon of Duluth, Minn., vice-president; Margaret Tibbits of Wallingford, Conn., recording secretary; Elizabeth Page of New York city, corresponding secretary; Ruth Washburn of Brooklyn, N. Y., treasurer.

The members of the Wake Robin Club paid their annual visit to Mr. John Burroughs at Slabside, April 23. At a meeting of Civitas held April 20, Miss Ella Mason gave a topic on "The Origin of the Christmas Tree." New members were elected as follows: Geraldine Shaw, Eau Claire, Wis.; Grace Frank, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Marjorie MacCoy, Philadelphia, Pa.; Margaret Brady, Rochester, N. Y.; Beatrice Owens, Cleveland, O.; Dorothy Rice, New York city; Mabel Clark, Salem, O.; Gertrude Orr, Denver, Col.; Harriet Waller, Bloomsburg, Pa.; and Louise Miller, Montrose, Pa.

T. & M., the debating society of 1911, had a joint discussion recently on the question: "Resolved, that the furniture, fixtures and lamps of senior parlor be made permanent by gifts from successive classes." The affirmative was upheld by Bessie I. Vine of Buffalo, N. Y.; the negative by Elizabeth B. Kutyner of Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

The seniors will hold their May day festival, Monday, in the athletic circle. There will be a May pole dance this year according to the custom of the even classes.

The growing popularity of bicycle riding at Vassar led to a bicycle parade, which took place Wednesday on the campus. Prizes were awarded for the most original, the prettiest and the funniest bicycles.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y.—Officers of the students' association for next year: President, Miss Julia S. Lovejoy of Janesville, Wis.; vice-president, Miss Emily Thallon of Brooklyn; secretary, Elizabeth C. Baldwin of East Orange, N. J.; treasurer, Helen Van Dyck of Greenville, N. Y.

Miss Mabel B. Palliser '10 is the recipient of the Vassar Students' Aid Society fellowship. She will use it to continue her study of history at the University of Wisconsin next year.

The Mary Richardson and Lydia Pratt Babbott fellowship has been awarded to Florence M. Bennett '03.

A song contest will be held between the four classes in May.

YALE UNIVERSITY.

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—There is a movement in progress among the 20 students of Yale University to form an organization whose aim will be to help educate the lower class of their countrymen living in New Haven and other large cities. It is hoped there will be similar movements among the Chinese in all the colleges of America. A general mass meeting of all the Chinese in this district will be held here on May 8, at which definite plans will be decided upon.

The instigator of this plan is Cheng-tung Thomas Wang of Ningpo, China, who is a senior in Yale College. When interviewed relative to the matter he said:

"We Chinese students feel greatly indebted to the students who have been doing educational work among our countrymen in America. But we fully realize that their ignorance of the native tongue has been a stumbling-block in the advancement of their noble work. And so we hope by entering into this work ourselves to overcome the difficulty and make the more ignorant Chinese laborers here better realize the value of American citizenship."

At the Railway Terminals

The railroad commissioners left the South station at 6 o'clock this morning over the Plymouth division of the New Haven road. Before returning to Boston they will inspect the main line and branches as far as Rumford.

The Boston & Maine road will place in service May 1 three new trains each way on the Marblehead branch, which were petitioned for by the North Shore summer residents.

The New Haven road's construction department is filing in at South bay for the purpose of laying a "Y" track for turning heavy equipment which is now sent to Bridgeport, thereby saving extra mileage and switching.

The passenger business on the Boston & Maine road was very heavy Thursday on account of New Hampshire's holiday. 1000 extra out-country people being handled in and out of the North station.

The New Haven road's private car 400, used by Vice-President Kochersperger, went with the 1:03 p. m. New York express from the South station today to New Haven.

STREET RAILWAY WORKERS MEET

The New England Street Railway Club held its monthly dinner Thursday evening at 6:30 o'clock at the American house. Following the dinner Henry E. Rhoades of the United States navy gave an account of his experiences in foreign countries as a naval engineer.

He also told of his experiences as a member of an expedition which was sent to the polar regions many years ago to the relief of the Jeannette.

SMITH COLLEGE.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass.—The first members from the sophomore class have been taken into the Manuscript Club. This is only for even classes, as the Blue Pencil Club is for odd, so that those who go in now will constitute the club for next year, with additions at their discretion. Ten sophomores were elected to membership in the following order: Miss Helen Searight, New York; Miss Dorothy Hawkins, Wilmington, Del.; Miss Hildegard Hoyt, Auburn, N. Y.; Miss Cyrena Martin, Philadelphia; Miss Louise Wood, St. Louis; Miss Mary Koner of Elizabeth, N. J.; Miss Louise Benjamin, New York; Miss Louise Spear, Newark, N. J.; Miss Janet Rankin of Minneapolis.

Wednesday evening Prof. Leonard P. Ayres, associate director of the department of child hygiene of the Russell Sage foundation, spoke on "Widening Opportunities for the College Trained Worker in the Department of Education." Professor Ayres was introduced by Professor Adams of the philosophy department.

The following are the officers of the College Settlement Association: Elector, Miss Louise Michael; secretary, Miss Rachel Whitten; treasurer, Miss Isabel La Monte.

BROWN UNIVERSITY.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—The committee in charge of the sub-freshman banquet consisted of Elmer S. Horton '10, Providence; Malcolm R. Jeffris '10, Jonesville, Wis.; Robert F. Skillings '11, Portland, Me.; and Norman B. Hull '13 of Providence.

George B. Francis, consulting engineer of New York city, gave an illustrated lecture descriptive of the new Pennsylvania railroad terminal before the engineering society in Manning hall recently.

The classes of 1889 and 1890 have given to the university a collection of books to be known as the Hammond Lamont Memorial Library. The collection is a valuable one and is highly prized by the library.

Ralph S. Drury '12 of Fitchburg, Mass., has been elected by the athletic association as assistant manager of next year's basketball team. He is a member of the bowling team and a member of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity. Brenton Smith '11 of New York was elected captain of next year's swimming team and James C. Elms, Jr., of East Orange, N. J., was made manager. Harold E. Muir of Newton, N. J., was elected manager of the varsity basketball team.

AMHERST COLLEGE.

AMHERST, Mass.—The chairmen of committees for the Christian Association for the year 1910-1911 have been selected: Bible study, George W. Williams '11; mission study, Frederic W. H. Stott '11; social service, Merritt C. Stuart '12; deputation, Laurens H. Seelye '11; handbook, Robert George '11; membership, Lawrence W. Roberts '11; reading room, E. Marion Roberts '11; finance, Alfred H. Clarke '11.

The date for the annual interclass Friday contest has been fixed for the Friday of prom week, May 27.

TUFTS COLLEGE.

MEDFORD, Mass.—Recently the members of the mechanical engineering senior class ran a test at the Boston power house of the Elevated Railway Company under the direction of Prof. Charles H. Chase.

Prof. Gardner C. Anthony, dean of the engineering school, Wednesday represented Tufts College at the opening of the new general engineering building of Union College at Schenectady.

Wednesday evening the Tufts chapter of Delta Tau Delta fraternity held its annual dance in the Goddard gymnasium.

SPRINGFIELD MAN GETS Y. M. C. A. POST

SPRINGFIELD, Mass.—Charles R. Wakeling, assistant boys' work director of the Y. M. C. A., has received notice of his appointment to the superintendency of the boys' farm in Brockton, one of the largest charitable institutions of that city. Mr. Wakeling leaves his post in the Y. M. C. A. building next week and will begin his duties in Brockton June 1. He will be succeeded in the local Y. M. C. A. by A. G. Baraw of the training school.

SEEKS TO LEAVE THE BATH HOUSE

Discussion in the board of trustees of the municipal bath department has led Joseph B. Macabee of East Boston to follow his resignation as chairman of the board with his resignation as a member of the board and this document is now in the hands of Mayor Fitzgerald.

That Mr. Macabee's resignation will not be accepted, and that he will be urged to remain on the board, is the prevalent opinion at city hall.

CONEY ISLAND BATHING HOUSE.

NEW YORK—Comptroller Prendergast will make a favorable report to the board of estimate today on the proposition to establish a municipal bathing house at Coney Island. The estimated cost of the building is $170,000.

ARTESIAN WATER IN MOUNTAINS.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—Artesian water has been found in the Quitman mountain region, a district rich in gold, silver, copper, lead and zinc deposits. Heretofore it has been impossible to work any of these because no water could be had.

Boston Y. M. C. A. Reviews Year's Work

Annual report just issued shows great activity especially in raising building fund.

SITE OF PROPOSED NEW Y. M. C. A. BUILDING.

Newbury and Arlington streets looking toward Arlington, the picture being taken on Newbury street. The apartment houses seen in the cut are to be removed.

THE Boston Y. M. C. A., according to its annual report just issued, has outlined a policy for the coming year that will maintain the efficiency of the work and in the meantime they will push as speedily as is practicable the erection of the new building on Arlington street.

This organization has helped 871 men and boys during the year 1909. The report sets forth the remarkable work that the association is doing in its city, railroad, army, navy, college and outing departments.

The great event of the year was the new building campaign, resulting in the raising of over $500,000 in 15 days, a very remarkable achievement. Among the other developments was the partial working out of the new building plans, the establishment of a vocation bureau, the opening of a day school for boys, the establishment of a savings department, the rendering of valuable service to the laymen's missionary movement and American and Boston federations of men's church organizations.

NAMES OF HOLDERS OF SEASON TICKETS FOR OPERAS DRAWN

Monday Favorite Night, With
Wednesday Second and Friday Evening and Saturday
Matinee Even.

BEST SEATS TAKEN

The names of the holders of the $5, $4 and $3 seats for the season of 1910-1911 at the Boston opera house, drawn late Thursday, are made public today.

Monday proved to be the popular opera night, with Wednesday night as second choice and then there is little choice between Friday evenings and Saturday matinees.

The $5 seats are on the floor of the opera house, the $4 seats cover all the central part of the first balcony, including the entire first row, and the $3 seats, of which there are only about 40, are in the first balcony at the extreme ends of the four central sections.

Following are the selections of seats by those names that were drawn:

The first name drawn from the big tin ticket box on the stage was that of Francis W. Dana. As he was not present, Agent Herrick, as proxy, selected among the $3 seats 41 and 42 in row B of the balcony; the best in the house at that figure. They are end seats in the second row of the first balcony.

George A. Macomber, seats 1 and 2 in row I on the floor Monday; Arthur W. Blake, seats 11 and 12 in row U for Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings; James G. Phelan, seats 10 and 11 in row G for the Monday and Wednesday evening operas; Henry B. Sprague, seats 5 and 6 in row O for the Monday night and the Saturday matinee; Mrs. M. Elizabeth Carter, seats 11 and 12 in row J, end seats, in the left of the central section for the Monday and Friday evening operas; Philip L. Saltonstall took for the Monday night operas seats 21 and 22 in row H.

Among those whose names were drawn early were: Robert M. Morse, seats 1 and 2 in row G for the entire season; Caroline L. Gay, seats 21 and 22 in row H for Friday evenings; Col. Henry L. Higginson, seats 10 and 11 in row D for the season; Mrs. H. P. Quincy, seats 12 and 13 in row M for the season; Mrs. John Lowell, seats 21 and 22 in row I for Monday nights; Mrs. David Coolidge, seats 10 and 11 in row E for the Friday evening operas; Mrs. J. Arthur Beebe, seats 9 and 10 in row A for Mondays and Wednesdays and seats 21 and 22 in row C for Friday evenings.

Mrs. G. S. Fearing, seats 1 and 2 in row N for the entire season; George H. Converse, seats 41 and 42 in row I for Monday and Wednesday evenings; Phineas W. Sprague, seats 21, 22, 23 and 24 in row C for Monday evenings; the management of the house selected seats 21 and 22 in row G for William Endicott, Jr., as he was unrepresented; Edward P. Bliss for Monday evening and the Saturday matinees, seats 101 and 102 in the balcony; Amory A. Lawrence secured for Monday and Friday evenings seats 1, 2, 3 and 4 in row E; W. K. Richardson, seats 41 and 42 in row N for Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings; George H. Davenport, seats 41 and 42 in row G for Monday nights.

Hadley, Mrs. Jacob Rogers, Mrs. Francis

Plunkett and Mrs. Thomas G. Waller. Among the invited guests are all of the field officers of the regiment and other prominent military men throughout the state.

The affair will open with a prize drill for gold and silver cups followed by the dance.

The committee in charge is Corp. Victor F. Jewett (chairman), 1st Sgt. Arthur D. Colby, Sgt. Winifred C. MacBrayne, Corp. Charles H. W. Hoyt, Privs. Joseph Devine, Sidney G. Laflamme, Charles Talbot, C. Frank Dupe and Musician Williston Carl.

THE HOUSEKEEPER

Hints That May Help.

BOY'S BLOUSE.

The simple blouse made of linen, madras or other washable materials is liked by even the older boys for summer wear. This one will be found especially well adapted to tennis, golf and all outdoor sports; also it is available for general use. Linen is the material illustrated, but all those that are used for boys' summer shirts are also used for the blouses. The patch pocket is a convenient as well as smart feature and there is a regulation box plait at the front, while the collar is joined to the neck edge.

The quantity of material required for the 14-year size is 3½ yards 24 or 27, 2½ yards 36 inches wide. The pattern (No. 6649) may be had in sizes for boys of 12, 14 and 16 years of age and can be obtained at any May Mantion agency or will be mailed to any address on receipt of price (10c.). Address 132 East Twenty-third street, New York; or Masonic Temple, Chicago.

SOME TRIED RECIPES.

SPICED MEAT.
Take a thin slice of round steak; remove the bone, fat and outer skin. Make a dressing from one cup of bread crumbs, a tablespoonful of butter, a minced onion, a teaspoonful of salt, a dash of cayenne pepper, a tablespoonful of ground sage, a teaspoonful of mustard, mace and cloves, moisten with soup stock and spread it over the meat. Place it in a thin cloth, roll it in a kettle and cover with boiling water. Boil from three to four hours, when remove the cloth, place the meat in a mold with a heavy weight on top. When it is cold, serve in thin slices.

SPAGHETTI A L'ITALIENNE.
Cut one pound of round steak into tiny dice and cook until brown in a dessert spoon of lard and one teaspoon of butter, pour in enough boiling water to cover, add a clove of garlic, one teaspoon of salt, and a few grains of cayenne, cover tightly and simmer for at least three hours. Cook one quart canned tomatoes until soft and press through a sieve. Remove the garlic from the meat and broth, add the tomatoes and thicken. Drop half a package of spaghetti into a gallon of fiercely boiling water, stir often with a long fork and cook until tender. Put the spaghetti in soup plates, dot with butter, cover with the sauce and sprinkle with grated cheese.

LYONNAISE POTATOES.
Cut cold, boiled potatoes into thin slices (about one-fourth of an inch thick, less rather than more); melt three table-spoonfuls of butter in a frying pan, and add three table-spoonfuls of onion, sliced as thin as possible; stir and cook the onion until softened and yellowed; add more butter, then turn into the pan a pint of potato slices; sprinkle in half a teaspoonful of salt and a dash of pepper, and let cook six or seven minutes, tossing gently meanwhile. Press the potatoes into an omelet shape, and let cook to a golden color. Turn upon a hot dish, sprinkle with fine-chopped parsley and serve in place of butter. Also, without pressing the potatoes into omelet shape, let cook until slightly browned, then sprinkle with parsley and turn into a hot dish.

SHAD ROE, CREOLE STYLE.
Prepare the roe by wiping with a damp cloth. Cook a tablespoonful of chopped bacon, a tablespoonful each of chopped green pepper and onion in two table-spoonfuls of butter; add two table-spoonfuls of flour and cook until brown, then add half a cup of beef broth and three-fourths cup oysters; o puree, and when boiling turn over the roe disposed in a buttered baking dish. Cover and let cook in the oven 15 or 20 minutes. Serve in the dish.

SALT PORK, COUNTRY STYLE.
Cut fat salt pork in quarter-inch slices and score the rind in three or four places, that the pork may not curl when the rind shrinks in cooking. Cover the slices with boiling water, dip them, one by one, on each side, in sifted flour, and let cook very slowly in the frying pan; when lightly browned on one side, turn to brown the other. If cooked slow enough the greater part of the fat will be extracted and a dry, crisp sweet-tasting morsel results. Serve with creamed or Lyonnaise potatoes.

CHOCOLATE BLANC MANGE.
Soak a package of gelatin in a half-pint of milk for two hours; stir a pinch of soda into a quart of rich milk and bring to the scalding point in double boiler; beat the yolks of two eggs light with a small cup of granulated sugar. Stir the soaked gelatin into the hot milk, and when it dissolves pour the hot liquid gradually upon the yolks and sugar, then whip in five table-spoonfuls of grated chocolate wet to a paste with a little cold milk; put all into a double boiler and cook, stirring all the time, until the boiling point is just reached. Remove at once from the fire, turn into a bowl, whip in the stiffened whites of the eggs and a teaspoonful of vanilla; pour into a mold wet with cold water, and set in a cool place to form. When ready to serve wrap a cloth out in hot water, wring it for a moment about the mold, and turn the contents out upon a chilled glass dish. Eat with powdered sugar and rich, sweet cream.

IN THE SHOPS OF ADVERTISERS.
Under fortunate and unusual circumstances Chandler & Co. have been able to secure from one of their best manufacturers 100 beautiful suits at about one half the ordinary prices. These suits made from ultra-fashionable cloths and finely tailored with coats in semi-fitted effects are now being offered at remarkably low prices.

Chandler & Co. also announce an introductory sale of the King tailored waist—a waist of the highest class—in which every model in their spring line will be sold at a one third reduction from regular prices. Every model is new this season, and every model will be continued throughout the season. To facilitate purchase, these waists can be charged, ordered by mail or sent on memorandum.

A bed, couch and hammock all in one is the latest convenience for the camp, the den or the bungalow. This contrivance, specially serviceable for the country, the mountain resort and the seashore, will be supplied to you by the Universal Hammock Company, Bristol street, Boston, at prices ranging from $6.50 to $8. Their No. 1 hammock is made 30 inches wide, 6 feet long, of heavy white duck, and includes roped

FUTURE FARMERS TAUGHT ON LAND

City Schools of Fergus Falls
Give Agricultural Tuition
on 10-Acre Farm and Provide Gardens.

FERGUS FALLS, Minn.—Students of the city schools in Fergus Falls are learning practical agriculture and horticulture this spring on a 10-acre farm tract which the board of education bought for them last fall. Part of it was sown in the autumn to winter wheat and rye. This came up finely and now that the ground is ready students are planting other crops, including oats, barley, flax, rye, potatoes, tame grasses, alfalfa, clover and corn. They are also setting out hedges of golden willow and buckthorn and are being taught crop rotation, the selection and testing of seeds and the care of the soil.

Besides this, every student who wishes, from the fifth grade up, is allowed to plant a garden under the direction of the instructor in agriculture. Garden plots have been obtained near the school buildings and pupils may make application for a tract and agree to attend to it once a week during the summer. The school furnished the seed for all experiments.

Today's Navy Orders

The following navy orders were posted today at the Charlestown navy yard: Capt. J. H. Sears, from duty as naval attaché to Kiyoo and Peking to home and wait orders; Commander H. P. Norton, to duty as inspector of engineering, navy department; Lieutenant—Commander Powers Symington, to duty at naval intelligence, navy department; Lieut. F. H. Poteet, to duty at naval academy, Annapolis, Md.; Assistant Paymaster H. L. Beach, to navy yard, New York.

ELECT PROFESSOR TO ALLDS' PLACE

UTICA, N. Y.—Prof. Ralph W. Thomas of Hamilton, Republican, and instructor in oratory in Colgate University, was elected senator of the thirty-seventh senatorial district Thursday to succeed Jotham P. Allds, resigned. Professor Thomas' majority over the Democratic nominee, Edward L. Nash of Norwich, was 2082.

laced frame, red covered mattress, ropes and hooks ready for hanging.

The Gilchrist Company of Washington and Winter streets is now offering a lot of 50 tailored suits worth $20 at $12.50. These suits are made up in finest French serges, panamas and popular narrow-wale worsteds in two styles. One style has handsomely embroidered collar and cuffs, skirts deep plaited, while the other is designed in the simplest tailored effects. The fabrics are all of the high spring styles.

In order to get suits of some wearing power women should, said Mrs. E. H. Richards in a speech at the national style show held at Washington, D. C., insist on getting the materials used in men's clothing. In A. Shuman & Co.'s ladies' suit department the ready-to-wear suits are made of men's gray and navy blue suitings, expertly tailored and splendidly finished suits of the highest quality are priced at $25 and $29.50.

With the object of introducing some wonderful values in pretty summer suits and gowns Belle Bryce Gummel (Inc.) of 344 Boylston street, Boston, Mass., will make for two weeks a special reduction on all orders over $100.

Oriental art connoisseurs should make a point of visiting Jordan Marsh Company's store and inspecting their loan exhibition of rare antique oriental rugs. This is one of the finest collections in the United States, every one being a genuine antique; some are over 600 years old, and many are of historical significance, having at one time been in the possession of Persian royalties. They are on display in the oriental rug section on the fifth floor of the new building, where an explanatory catalogue can be obtained.

If you are purposing refitting or furnishing anew your summer cottage at the seashore or mountain resort or merely want to obtain a piece of furniture to harmonize with the color scheme of a room, you would do well to consult Jordan Marsh Company's experts on interior decoration, who are men of broad experience in selecting the most suitable furnishings for city home or country house. The firm maintains a department of interior decoration in the furniture building on the sixth floor.

When shopping do not fail to visit Miss M. F. Fiske's "Red Glove Shop," 322 Boylston street, where you will find an attractive showing of women's gloves at $1.50; handsome hand embroidered collars at 50 cents each; also beautiful jabots at 50 cents. There are some exceptional values in tailor-made waists which will be shown to you on request.

In their great Washington street show windows the Leopold Morse Company are displaying eighteen different lines of clothing in as many sections. Each section is made up of clothing of a different price. The first is a display of suits at $12, the next $15, the next $12.50 and so on up to $35. The reverse order, beginning at $35 and ending at $12, is maintained on the Brattle street side. It will repay any one to take time and visit Adams square and see these windows.

Well Made

Those who know Browning, King & Co. Clothing don't need to be told that its superiority is due to good workmanship.

The best worsteds, stylish in design, the best workmanship, the internal canvas and stays actually there, stretched and stitched—these are details that are commonly neglected.

You'll find they are all there in our clothes.

What Other Editors Are Saying

PRESIDENT TAFT continues to be the subject of keen editorial shafts or laurel wreaths and the following comment from recent newspaper exchanges shows the drift of tolerance, blame or approval for the official acts of the chief magistrate of the United States:

LOS ANGELES TIMES—The President has a way about him of seeing through the facts in any subject he undertakes to discuss, of weighing them in a judicial manner and of stating them not bluntly nor rudely, but with thorough frankness.

ST. LOUIS WOMAN'S NATIONAL DAILY—There is no call yet for President Taft to eliminate himself. He has not made mistakes which cannot be rectified. The people, the masses who go to make up the sinew of the party at which he stands today as the head, will join with good will in helping him when it becomes apparent that he depends on them as they have depended on and imposed confidence in him.

NEW YORK TIMES—If now the President insists upon it, if he uses the powers he asks for with energy and firmness, if, in a word, he makes himself the faithful champion of true traffic reform and industrial emancipation, he may achieve an honorable reputation and perform a great public service. For this task he need not worry as to leadership of House or Senate. He has only to follow the dictates of plain duty and the American people will take care of leaders and followers in Congress.

LOUISVILLE COURIER-JOURNAL—There's one comfort! He is a gentleman and an honest man. He was born and bred a gentleman. Wherever the qualities that go to the making of a gentleman have had occasion to put in an appearance, President Taft has shown large indeed.

OPPOSE AUTO TAX
PLANS OF MAYOR

Chamber of Commerce Directors Disapprove Project to Give Parts of It to Various Park Commissions.

Mayor Fitzgerald's contention that the metropolitan park board and the municipal park commission should each receive 25 per cent of the automobile license fees, as pay for damage to the parkways by autos is disapproved by the directors of the Boston Chamber of Commerce in a communication to the mayor in which are set forth the reasons for their action.

The directors maintain that the increase in automobile fees was proposed by the highway commission and consented to by the automobile owners because the fees were to be used in maintaining the state highways.

Furthermore, the directors figure that there are 18,000 automobiles in Boston and nearby places. The machines assessed at an average of $1000 apiece, or $18,000,000 total, would, on a tax rate of $16, bring an income to the metropolitan district of about $288,000.

It is urged that Boston obtains great benefit from its geographical position as the distributing center for New England.

PHILADELPHIA NORTH AMERICAN—Nothing would please us more than to see the skies change and Taft once more become the achiever of unbroken success and the maker of friends. But, as yet, we admit that we see no sign of a change in the horoscope.

MONTREAL STAR—President Taft, for one thing, has not shown himself aggressive enough or strong enough to carry out, against the opposition of certain of the leaders in the Senate and of Congress, the policies to which he committed himself on taking office.

CALLS ALBANIANS TO HELP REVOLT

BELGRADE—The leaders of the Albanian revolt issued a manifesto today summoning all adult Albanians to join the revolt under penalty of being considered traitors. There are now 45,000 rebels in the field, according to despatches from Prishtina, and the new edict is expected to double this number within a week.

The rebels are in such a commanding position in Kachanik pass and other strategic points that the Turkish troops are delaying a further attack to await reinforcements. The rebels have a big advantage in their familiarity with the country. Abdul Hamid's old palace guard is said to be the board of strategy of the revolt.

BOY ADDRESSES SENATORS.
WASHINGTON—Defending the right of amateurs to send wireless messages, W. E. D. Stokes, Jr., of New York, the 14-year-old president of the Junior Wireless Club of America, appeared before the Senate committee on commerce Thursday. He made a unique and able plea.

IRREGULARITY IN PRICE MOVEMENTS AGAIN PREVAILS

Market Opens With Better Tone, Followed by Further Selling—St. Paul Attracts Some Attention.

BOSTON IS STEADY

There was much irregularity in the stock market today. New York was active and special interest was directed to the important issues. The news of the morning was generally favorable, but recently this has lost much of its significance and the market has continued to drop in spite of the optimistic reports.

The opening was buoyant and prices rose easily for a short time. Selling pressure again appeared and stocks declined. This was followed by another advance and securities vibrated backward and forward at a very uncertain rate.

United States Steel was again conspicuous. It opened up  $\frac{1}{2}$  at 80, improved to 80, dropped the fraction and then advanced about  $\frac{1}{8}$ .

Reading opened unchanged at 157, improved nearly a point and then fell back to 156. Good buying again advanced the stock well above the opening. St. Paul which had a severe setback the past few days opened up  $\frac{1}{2}$  at 136, advanced a point and held well its gain during the first part of the session. The announcement that the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway Company contemplated an issue of bonds was largely responsible for the selling movement in the shares and gave rise to a bearish feeling in some speculative quarters. This view of the matter seems a very narrow one based on temporary market conditions. It is argued that the demand for bonds for investments is not large at present, and that in order to effect sales concessions must be made in the shape of higher interest rates. There is something in this although the company by inserting a convertible clause in the mortgage will add a speculative feature to that of the investment itself and secure good prices for whatever bonds are sold. The matter of a slightly higher interest rate is, however, not of primary importance.

It may be that one consideration with the directors has been the fact, that after the pending administration railway bill goes into effect, the railways will be compelled to secure the permission of the interstate commerce commission before issuing new securities. This, however, is aside from the point, which is the manner in which the announcement and similar issues by other companies are greeted by the professional speculative element.

The local market was inclined to weakness. Lake Copper opened up  $\frac{1}{4}$  at 52, advanced to 52, sold off to  $\frac{1}{2}$  and then improved fractionally. Isle Royale opened up  $\frac{1}{4}$  at 14, declined a good fraction. North Butte opened unchanged at 32, advanced to 33, and slumped off later. Granby opened up  $\frac{1}{2}$  at 43, advanced to 43, and lost about a point before noon.

Shortly after midday there was some good buying of the leading securities and the New York market became steady. At the beginning of the last hour a moderate rally was in progress, carrying prices well above the low points of the day. St. Paul had recovered to 139. Steel was selling above 82. Reading was two points above the opening. Pennsylvania was selling around 133. The local market was also stronger.

ROCK ISLAND SHOPS.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—Work has been started on the Rock Island shops to be erected at a cost of $200,000 at Biddle, a suburb of Little Rock. The company will erect a roundhouse, car shop, storehouses, coal chute and other buildings, which will eventually cost $1,250,000.

RETURNING TO CHANGSHA.

CHANGSHA, China.—The Yamen mission, abandoned on account of the rioting, will be reopened on May 2. Some foreign business houses have resumed operations at inland points.

MUCH INTEREST IN LONDON'S RUBBER MARKET JUST NOW

First Settlement Day Is Near When Strength of Many New Shares Will Be Put to a Thorough Test.

DEMAND FOR CRUDE

NEW YORK—With the local rubber market apathetic, except as regards prophecies as to the height to which crude rubber will rise, all eyes are turned toward London, where the trading in rubber shares has been going on at an unprecedented rate. Rubber men here are anxious to see the result of the first settlement day, May 5, believing the strength of many of the new shares will be thoroughly tested.

The total authorized capital of the 500 new companies is $29,001,500, but as 2-shilling shares are now selling as high as 80 shillings, $500,000,000 is a conservative estimate of the amount in rubber vested in rubber by the English today. Practically all dealings are for special settlement and adjusting of the accounts of at least 10 of the most important companies will occur in a few days. After that, however, special settlement days will be more frequent and in some quarters sensational developments are awaited. One of the latest companies to enter the field is the United Malayian Rubber Company, shares of which will be offered soon. Among the directors are Cornelius Vanderbilt and Robert Goetz. The capital is $10,000,000.

While crude rubber has fallen off slightly the last few days, there is no possibility of a big change in the near future. With demands so far exceeding supply, especially in the automobile industry, where over half of the crude material is handled, the reason for high prices is apparent. Since Jan. 1 the price of crude rubber has risen $1.10. Average quotation for January was $1.87. February's high mark was $2.10, but after that the prices went soaring until $2.97 was reached during March. There has not been much deviation from this for two months. In the last part of 1909 a high of $2.15 was reached during August and September, but later there was a drop, the price for November and December ranging from $1.75 to $1.83.

While rubber exported from Brazil for 11 months ended Nov. 30 last was 34,075 tons, an increase of only 553 tons over the same period of 1908, valuation increase was from $49,540,883 to $80,183,052. Estimating output from Brazil for the year on 11 months' basis the following illustrates the slow production increase of that country for a period of years (in tons): 1903-'04, 30,590; 1904-'05, 33,065; 1905-'06, 34,480; 1906-'07, 38,050; 1907-'08, 36,581; 1908-'09, 38,095.

Manufacturers have some consolation in reports of output from Ceylon and portions of Africa, fields now being developed. During 1909 output from Ceylon was 4600 tons; Portuguese-Africa, 3000 tons; West Africa, 9500 tons, and in Central America and Mexico 3000 tons. When it is considered that these figures compare favorably with Brazilian output, and in districts hitherto practically unworked, they have more than a small significance.

DIVIDENDS

The American Radiator Company declared the usual quarterly dividends of 14 per cent on its preferred stock and 2 per cent on its common stock. The preferred dividend is payable May 16. The common dividend is payable June 30.

A newly elected director of the Street's Western Stable Car Line says that the policy of the new directorate will be to pass dividends for at least a year. This, he declares, will place the company on a footing which will enable it to resume dividends later and maintain them. Inside selling based on this decision is said to be one of the reasons for the continued decline in the shares of the company.

NEW YORK—The cotton market opened firm, 3 to 16 points higher: May 14.58, July 14.58, Aug. 13.90, Oct. 12.70, Dec. 12.52, Jan. 12.48.

LIVERPOOL—Spot cotton limited demand, prices steady. American middling uplands 7.94. Sales 4000. Receipts 2000, none American. Futures opened steady.

SHIPPING NEWS

T wharf arrivals were few this morning, only three vessels being in. Owing to the small supply, good prices were received. The vessels were Yankee with 17,000 pounds, Rita A. Viator 18,000, Azorian 3700. The total fare comprised 33,700 pounds of haddock, 6500 pounds of cod and 500 pounds of cusk.

T wharf dealers' prices Friday per hundredweight: Haddock, $4.75 to $5.25; cod, same; cusk, $2.25.

The fresh mackerel landed at New York by the Boston schooner Tecumseh were caught 45 miles southeast of Five Fathom bank lightship in lat 38 deg. 30 m. longitude 47 deg. 10 m. The vessel made three sailings, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday nights. Captain Nolan of the schooner Tecumseh, sighting about 30 of the sailing fleet on the grounds, Capt. John McGinnis of the schooner Aloah reported to Captain Nolan that the fleet had passed through 70 miles of mackerel, but had been unable to take any because of their wildness. Two more vessels have started south after mackerel, the seiner Francis J. O'Hara Jr., Capt. Jerry Cook, and the netter, M. Madeleine, Capt. Roland Brewer.

Six vessels will this year comprise the Gloucester salt halibut fleet. Schooner Admiral Dewey, Capt. James Hays, was the first craft to get away for the north. She left Gloucester Thursday for Hudson bay fisheries to remain until fall. At one time more than 30 sail were engaged in this fishery, but with the increased facilities for handling and quick transportation of fresh fish, the demand for the salted product has fallen off so that it is no longer profitable enough to tempt many fishermen to spend three months in the far north.

News comes from the Eastport sardine fishery to the effect that fish of fine quality and in generous quantity have been taken in the "down shore" waters during the past few days. Fisheries 3, 4 and 5 of the Seacoast Canning Company are now in operation and the outlook is bright for a busy season.

Leyland liner Lancastrian, Captain Fortay, is discharging a large general cargo today at East Boston. The steamer arrived late Thursday from London. The Devonian of the same line berthed at East Boston early today, coming from New York where she landed a big cargo from Liverpool. She will leave here May 4 with a heavy freight and 40 saloon passengers for Liverpool.

EXPERT ON FARMING ADVISES BANKERS TO AID AGRICULTURISTS

Bureau Official Declares Such a Course as Beneficial to Business as Promoting Manufacturing.

IMPROVE METHODS

FORT SMITH, Ark.—The banker's interest in the income from agriculture was the subject of an address delivered before the Arkansas Bankers Association in session here this week by A. D. McNair of the United States bureau of plant industry. He said in part:

"The banker is naturally interested in increasing the volume of money and the volume of business in his community and he helps in various ways to develop the business interests of his town so that the income from various sources may be larger and the volume of business increased.

"A very common method of building up the business interests of a town is to get a factory or as many factories as possible, and the promoter of such a factory calls not only on the banker but on all the business men in town, painting a rosy picture in which he states the number of men that the factory will employ, the annual wages of each workman and the total amount of money that these men and their families will spend in the town.

"The point that I desire to make is that if the banker can assist in getting factories located in his town, whose men will spend $100,000 or $200,000 per year or even more, he can also assist in promoting agricultural development, not only in helping to get men to invest in the farm lands of his community, but in encouraging better methods of agriculture and better methods of business among the farmers, so that there will be a larger income per acre and per man and so that this income will not be spent so largely for the things that the farmer should raise at home.

"It is a well known fact that the income from agriculture is not as large in the South as in the North, and not as large in the East as in the West, but I do not think there is a very general understanding of why this is true.

"The two great factors which explain these differences are the number of acres tended per man and the yield of each acre. In Arkansas there are 15 acres of all crops per each person engaged in agriculture compared with 25 acres in New York, 29 acres in Ohio and 60 acres in Iowa. As far as the yield of crops is concerned we may take the corn crop as an example and we find that the average yield of corn for a 10-year period is 18 bushels per acre in Arkansas, 30 bushels in New York, 35 bushels in Ohio and Illinois and 32 bushels in Iowa.

"With the use of many work animals and more machinery and with the adoption of a type of farming which puts approximately half the cropped land in cultivated crops and half in hay and small grain the Arkansas farmer could easily double the number of acres which he now tends and would therefore get the income from double as many acres.

"In addition there should be more live stock raising, more manure, better seed, better plowing and cultivation and a more liberal use of leguminous crops.

"I place these facts before this association of bankers in order that they may use their influence individually and collectively to encourage better methods of farming in their several communities to the end that the agricultural income be increased, and consequently, the volume of business."

LABOR DEMANDS FOR WORCESTER

WORCESTER—Demands for increased wages to go into effect May 1 have been made upon the contractors by about all the building trades.

Word was given out this week, coming from prominent contractors, that the wages of bricklayers and plasterers would be advanced on Monday from $4.40 a day of eight hours to $4.80. The demand made by the district carpenters' council calls for a wage of $3.50 a day of eight hours, to be paid to every journeyman carpenter. The present wage is $3.25 for an eight-hour day.

The plumbers' union seeks the same pay, $24 a week, but demand that they be given Saturday afternoons off during the entire year. The stone masons ask an advance from $4 to $4.50 a day.

CHESAPEAKE'S STOCK INCREASE

RICHMOND, Va.—The Chesapeake & Ohio railroad stockholders have authorized an increase of $36,739,700 in the capital. The stockholders also authorized an issue of $37,200,000 20-year 4½ per cent convertible bonds.

The bonds are issued, it was stated, to provide funds for the acquisition of a majority of the common capital stock of the Hocking Valley Railway Company and of a substantial interest in the capital stock of the Kanawha & Michigan Railway Company and for general improvement purposes.

New York Fruit News.

The steamer Oceania with 5100 bxs Palermo lemons has arrived at New York. Sale Thursday—27 cars Cali oranges and 1 car Cali lemons. The market on oranges was very strong and active and large sales were a trifle higher.

The Cal lemons were sound but coarse fruit and the 240s sold $2.30 to $3.40, 270s $2.30 to $4.30, 300s $2.70 to $3.00, 360s $2.70 to $3.25.

About 180 bxs Maori lemons were sold and the stock was very good. Best 300s sold $4.12½, with one small line at $4; choice to extra choice sold $3.37½ to $3.50; 500 bxs Cuban grape fruit sold $1 to $1.50.

Most of these showed decay. The cargoes of the Delphine and Florida, about 23,500 bxs were sold. Neither cargo was very good. In the Delphine's cargo there were quite a number of invoices that the fruit showed up in good quality, but the vessel having made a long voyage, the fruit showed age.

The cargo of the Florida was generally fresher, but the quality was not as good, and most everything in both steamers showed more or less decay.

The market opened weak and decidedly strengthened under active bidding. Prices took an upward turn and continued to the end of the sale and market was practically unchanged from last Tuesday. Brokers were well supplied with orders and took all the good fruit there was, while the local trade bought the balance.

The general range of prices was as follows: First choice 30s $2.85 to $3.35, 360s $2.90 to $3.45; second choice 300s $2.45 to $2.80, 360s $3 to $3.65.

A BIG DEMAND FOR MAY COTTON

NEW YORK—At the opening of the cotton market prices were firm. There was a big demand for May and July, those positions showing upturns of 14 to 16 points.

Notices on fully 180,000 bales were issued, most of it stopping with bull leaders, who appeared able to take all the cotton delivered.

There was nothing in the action of the market during the middle of the morning to indicate that any interest remained in May. Business was quiet and fluctuations were irregular. Later estimates placed the amount of cotton tendered on May at fully 200,000 bales and it seemed that all of the cotton that has been taken up on April was re-tendered on May contracts.

OPENING EDIFICE FOR ENGINEERING

SCHENECTADY, N. Y. — The new $100,000 General Engineering building, the gift of Andrew Carnegie to Union College, was opened Friday with elaborate exercises which were attended by representatives of practically all the colleges and universities of the East.

The new structure is completely equipped and is an architectural ornament to the Union campus. The alumni have endowed this general engineering school with $100,000, the condition of Mr. Carnegie's bequest.

BACK FROM EUROPE.

NEW YORK—J. P. Davison, of J. P. Morgan & Co., has returned from a two month's trip to Europe where he spent most of his time with Mr. Morgan. He would not discuss finances, but did admit that he heard of the increased Steel dividend "through the air."

MOVEMENTS OF NAVAL VESSELS.

TRADE INVESTIGATOR POINTS OUT ROAD TO INCREASED EXPORTS

"If the best of our business men will push their activities into foreign countries, our export trade can be increased to an enormous extent. This country, in fact, is rapidly coming to a point where export trade with the foreign markets is more essential to our welfare than at any other period in its history," declared C. A. Green of New York in an interview in Boston today.

Mr. Green is agent for the R. G. Dun & Co. mercantile agency, and has traveled extensively in all parts of the civilized world, making investigations of the methods and financial standing of business houses. A part of his business is to attend conventions of merchants throughout the United States, and he has been attending the annual meeting of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers in Tallot hall. In previous years he has read papers before the cotton men. Mr. Green speaks optimistically of the opportunities of American business men not alone from theory, but from the practical experience that 20 years of painstaking investigation into the subject has afforded.

HEINZE LAWYER SCORES A POINT

NEW YORK—District Attorney Wise at today's session of the trial of F. A. Heinze for alleged violation of the national banking law called Miles M. O'Brien, vice-president of the Mercantile National Bank, and began questioning him regarding the condition of the bank between March and October, 1907.

Attorney Stanchfield, for Mr. Heinze, objected.

"Objection sustained," declared Judge Hough, "the charge against this defendant is over-certification. You must lay a foundation for the over-certification charge at once. This trial is now in its fifth day without any evidence to uphold the allegations of the indictment."

"1915" EDUCATION MEETING TODAY

The "Boston-1915" education conference will hold a meeting at 8 p. m. today at the Y. M. C. U. building, 46 Boylston street, to hear Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard University, and other speakers.

The program includes the following addresses: "A General Survey of the Educational Needs of the Community," Dr. Eliot; "Needs of Continuation Schools," Frank P. Spear, Boston Y. M. C. A.; "Needs of Public Schools," Joseph Lee; "Settlements and Their Development," Robert A. Woods, and "Education of Defectives," George H. Martin.

REBUKE MAYOR OF SOMERVILLE

The Somerville aldermen overrode eight vetoes sent in by Mayor John Woods and tabled a ninth, at a meeting Thursday evening. The board refused confirmation of an appointment made by the mayor to the office of superintendent of the work of suppressing the brown and gypsy moth.

The first veto was of an order appropriating $70,000 to construct a schoolhouse in ward 7, and others were vetoes of licenses granted to four expressmen to transport liquors into the city, and several pool licenses.

HARVARD DEBATES AT YALE TONIGHT

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—For the fourth time, the Yale and Harvard freshmen debating teams will meet tonight, and will thresh out the question: "Resolved, that the United States should adopt a system of subsidies other than our present mail subsidies, for the encouragement of our merchant marine."

GIFT FOR COLONEL LOMBARD.

Col. Walter E. Lombard of the coast artillery corps was presented with a silver service by Capt. William Renfrew of the fifth company of the corps on Thursday evening. The presentation was at the headquarters of the fifth company in Chelsea and was made in behalf of the members of the company in recognition of Colonel Lombard's activity in raising a fund for the members of the company who lost their homes in the Chelsea fire.

NAME OF "BACCHANTE" OWNER.

The name of the present owner of Frederick MacMonnies' "Bacchante," which was in the Verkes art collection and has become loaned to the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, became public today. It is George Robert White. Mr. White lives at 285 Commonwealth avenue, Boston, and he also has a home in Manchester, Mass.

APPROVE ELECTRIC PLANT SALE.

The sale of the electrical section of the Lexington Gas and Electric Company's plant to the Edison Electric Illuminating Company has been approved by the gas and electric light commission. The Edison company pays in cash $87,000 but with a bond agreement, the total cost will be $120,000.

RECOVERS LONG LOST WATCH.

Miss Mildred Skerry, a senior at the Boston University, received from the Boston police this morning a watch which she lost Nov. 6, 1906. The police located the watch in a pawn shop by the number which Miss Skerry gave them when she discovered her loss.

Musical Events

THERE is only one answer to the question: "Why has Mr. Hammerstein withdrawn from opera?" He has stated it simply when asked about it in Paris; he could not make opera pay. Some of the reasons why his enterprises this year have been a loss to him can be seen from a study of the short Boston season from March 28 to April 2, with which he closed his operatic activities. Mr. Hammerstein began that season with the opera "Elektra" of Richard Strauss, to the production of which in the Manhattan opera house his best energies of the year had been devoted. The opera met approval in Boston as it did in New York, but it interested only a small part of the public. Mr. Hammerstein presented on the third night of his Boston engagement Massenet's "Griseldis," another production for which early in the year he had great hopes. Again approval, but by a comparatively small audience.

The old operas of the Manhattan repertory, like "Lucia" and "Traviata" with Mme. Tetrazzini and "Thais" with Miss Gardien, were successful, even when strong counter attractions were offered by the Metropolitan Opera Company at the Boston opera house. But Mr. Hammerstein's ability to hold his own in the opera field depended on the success of his new enterprises; and when a study is made of his New York season the examples of his misjudging the enthusiasm of the American public for his ideas are multiplied. His season of educational opera last fall was unprofitable; his season of French opera comique, which he planned to run parallel with his regular grand opera season, had to be abandoned. Then the new singers whom he discovered in Europe last summer were almost all disappointments when put to the test on the Manhattan stage. Mr. Hammerstein found his first exploits in the opera of the modern French school profitable; but he exhausted the field much sooner than he expected. "Thais" and "Pelléas" were among the best works of that school, and "Pelléas" did not long hold its own as a popular piece. He found profitable, too, his exploitations of singers whose other impressarios had neglected; but he found the possibilities of discovering new artists did not hold out so long as he believed they would.

Mr. Hammerstein's success in opera was owing above all else to his pre-eminent artistic gifts. As a musician and as a stage manager he set a standard for American opera that the combined geniuses of the operatic alliance may not surpass. He always said that he succeeded because he worked alone and did not have to consult a board of directors before he made a new move. His career is interesting to study, for both the favorable and unfavorable results of the one-man management of such an elaborate organization as an opera company.

CAMBRIDGE SYMPHONY CONCERT.

The last symphony concert of the Cambridge series by the Boston-Symphony Orchestra was given in Sanders theater of Harvard University Thursday evening. Willy Hess, the retiring conductor of the orchestra, made his farewell appearance as soloist; he was warmly applauded for his performance of Mendelssohn's concerto in E minor. Sanders theater is an excellent auditorium for music like that of the Mendelssohn concerto; it is a rather small place for some of the music of modern composers, even when the string section of the orchestra is reduced in size. The program included Gustav Strube's comedy overture, "Puck"; Rachmaninoff's tone poem, "Isle of the Dead," and Strauss' Domestic Symphony. Mr. Fiedler read the symphony less broadly than he read it at a recent Boston concert, and, having in mind the nearness of the orchestra to the audience, he read it more intimately. He succeeded in giving Strauss in the small Cambridge auditorium much the same quality of interpretation that he gave Mendelssohn.

NOTED PHI BETA KAPPA SPEAKERS

President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard and Frederick P. Fish, chairman of the state board of education, will be the speakers at the annual reception of the Harvard chapter of the Phi Beta Kappa Society to its graduate members in the common room of Conant hall in Cambridge this evening.

An invitation to be present has been sent to all Phi Beta Kappa men in the university, whether or not members of the Harvard chapter.

KING IS SEEKING FOR A COMPROMISE

LONDON—Emissaries of King Edward are working strenuously today among the Liberal and Conservative leaders to have them compromise the "Lords veto" question. Only such a compromise as the King seeks will prevent Premier Asquith from asking the creation of enough Liberal peers to put the "Lords veto" resolution through the upper house.

If the Premier does that, the King will have to give his answer immediately.

CONSTITUTION TO REMAIN.

WASHINGTON—Agitation for the removal of the Constitution from the Charleston navy yard to City Point, Boston, will not be successful. Representative Roberts and Kellher of Massachusetts saw Secretary Meyer and were told that the department would not make any change.

WINTHROP YACHT CLUB PLAY.

The first performance of the Winthrop Yacht Club show at the clubhouse Thursday evening was pronounced a success by those present. The program will be repeated tonight and Saturday evening.

RENEWED REVISION OF TARIFF OPPOSED BY MANUFACTURERS

The National Association of Cotton Manufacturers concluded its two-day meeting in Mechanics building Thursday with a resolution against further attempts at tariff revision. The resolution read as follows:

"That the association deprecates the present agitation for further tariff revision and points out that with the balance of trade against the country any further opening of the door to imports would tend to destroy American industries, to stop employment, to reduce wages and to bring about another period of commercial depression and disaster."

A resolution was passed favoring the buying of cotton on a net weight basis, and one to the effect that the association viewed with satisfaction the increasing use by manufacturers of safety devices for the protection of their help and expressing the hope that the employees would use every effort in return to avoid all carelessness while at work.

Secretary C. T. H. Woodbury explained at the morning session that he had received a communication from the committee contemplating the erection of an engineers' club building in Boston, containing an invitation for members of the association to join the club.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Franklin W. Hobbs of Boston; vice-presidents, George Otis Draper of New York and Edward Farnham Greene of Lawrence; directors for three years, Albert Farwell Bemis of Jackson, Tenn., R. M. Miller, Jr., of Charlotte, N. C., and Russell B. Lowe of Pittsburgh; directors for two years to succeed Mr. Greene, Frederick A. Flather of Lowell; director for one year, to succeed Mr. Flather, Frederick B. Macy of New Bedford.

The meeting place for the fall convention was not decided upon.

PLANNING TO OPEN BIG BARGE CANAL

NEW YORK—The $100,000,000 barge canal for New York state may be ready for full use in 1915. If all goes well Frederick L. Stevens, state superintendent of public works, hopes to have the Erie canal enlarged and ready for heavy traffic by that year. The Panama canal will also be ready, probably, by that time.

The consensus of opinion at a recent meeting favors a terminal in Spuyten Duyil creek, with greatly increased facilities in Manhattan and Brooklyn.

HARRISBURG JURY STILL OUT.

HARRISBURG, Pa.—The jury is deadlocked over the question of the guilt or innocence of Joseph M. Huston, architect of the state capitol, charged with conspiracy to defraud the commonwealth. It has been out since 3:25 p. m. Thursday afternoon.

REPUBLICAN PEACE IS REPORTED TO BE
"ASSURED IN FUTURE"

WASHINGTON—Danger of a permanent split in the Republican party seems to be over, according to Senate progressives and House insurgents. The forthcoming withdrawal of Senators Alchib and Hale from public life, the taking away of all real power from the speaker, the certainty that the present session is to work out some sort of a tariff commission proposition satisfactory to the central West, and the growing desire of both progressives and insurgents to unite with the regulars in both houses to enact into law the bills which the President is urging as party measures—these are some of the signs pointing to party harmony. The prediction is now made that the terms "progressives" and "insurgents," in their present meanings, will be obsolete before the end of the present campaign, and the Republican party in position to make a united showing against the common enemy.

This is the view of President Taft, who is closer to the situation in all its phases than any other man in Washington. It is the view of such regulars as Chairman Tawney of the House appropriations committee; of such progressives as Senator La Follette.

The opposition, headed by national committeeman Thomas Taggart, had worked tooth and nail for the plan of having a state primary select the senatorial nominee.

In the end Mr. Taggart and his forces bowed to the victors and joined in heartily with the convention in acclaiming Mr. Kern as the party choice.

INDIANA DEMOCRATS IN CONVENTION NAME
MR. KERN TO SENATE

INDIANAPOLIS—Governor Marshall's proposition that the Democratic state convention endorse a candidate for the United States Senate to the next Legislature was adopted Thursday. John W. Kern, candidate for Vice-President in 1908 was chosen.

The opposition, headed by national committeeman Thomas Taggart, had worked tooth and nail for the plan of having a state primary select the senatorial nominee.

In the end Mr. Taggart and his forces bowed to the victors and joined in heartily with the convention in acclaiming Mr. Kern as the party choice.

END TECH SHOW WITH A BANQUET

Members of Technology's student show "Over the Cannibal Isles," will wind up the season tomorrow evening with the final banquet, at which a statement of profits will be given out and plans discussed for the coming year. The management will present Coach James Francis with some appropriate gift for his work this season and a number of old show men, professors and the two authors, Edwin C. Vose '11 of Newton, and Clarence A. Stewart '12 of Newtonville, will be called on to speak.

Dudley Clapp '10, the general manager, will act as toastmaster and will call on the following: Prof. Dugald C. Jackson of the department of electrical engineering and Prof. Harold Pender of the same course; Isaac W. Litchfield '85, of the Technology Review; Ralph Goodwin '10, president of the senior class, and Coach James Francis.

NEW PINK GRANITE WORKS WILL OPEN

BROCKTON, Mass.—A new industry has begun here by the opening at Brockton Heights of the Brockton Pink Granite Works, controlled by the Commonwealth Real Estate and Trust Company of Boston. A building, 90 by 30 feet, is under construction at what has been known as the old gravel pit. Business will be in operation within a few weeks.

George A. Thompson, formerly of Boston, who had charge of the concrete work about the South Terminal station, is to have charge of the making of the cement articles in the new plant.

LUCIUS TUTTLE TO BE SPEAKER

President Lucius Tuttle of the Boston & Maine railroad will speak on "Business Changes During the Last 60 Years" tonight to the association members of the Boston chapter of the American Institute of Banking at a dinner at the Exchange Club.

Other speakers will be Moorfield Storey, who will talk on "Disarmament," and George E. Allen, on "Gynecuties." President Charles B. Wiggins of the chapter and assistant auditor of the Old Colony Trust Company will act as toastmaster.

NIAGARA AS ARNOLD SAW IT

IN a letter to the London Telegraph in 1900, Edwin Arnold said: Before my balcony, the great cataract is thundering, smoking, glittering with green and white rollers and rapids, hurling the waters of a whole continent in splendor and speed over the sharp ledges of the long, brown rock by which Erie, "the Broad" steps proudly down to Ontario, "the Beautiful."

The smaller but very imposing American Fall speaks with the louder voice of the two, because its coiling spirals of twisted and furious flood crash in full impulse of descent upon the talus of massive boulders heaped up at its foot. The resounding impact of water on rocks, the clouds of water-smoke which rise high in air, and the river below churned into a whirling cream of eddy and surge and backwater, unite in a composite effect, at once magnificent and bewildering.

Far away, Niagara river is seen winding eagerly to its prodigious leap. Far back along the gilded surface of the upper stream, these lines of dancing, tossing, eager, anxious and fate-impelled breakers and billows multiply their white ranks and spread and close together their leaping ridges into a wild chaos of racing waves as the brink is approached. And then, at the brink, there is a curious pause—the momentary peace of the irrevocable. Those mad upper waters—reaching the great leap—are suddenly all quiet and glassy, and rounded and green as the border of a field of rye, while they turn the angle of the dreadful ledge and hurl themselves into the snow-white gulf of noise and mist and mystery underneath.

There is nothing more translucently green nor more perennially still and lovely than Niagara the greater. At this, her awful brink, the whole architecture of the main abyss gleams like a fixed and glorious work wrought in polished aquamarine or emerald. This exquisitely colored cornice of the enormous waterfall—this brim of bright tranquility between fervor of rush and fury of plunge—is its principal feature, and stamps it as far more beautiful than terrestrial.

Chanticleer Come to His Own.

WHEN one remembers that La Fontaine is sometimes called the greatest poet of France, and that his stories presenting humanity under the guise of animals and birds are called epics in quality and power by those who best understand the genius of the French people, one wonders less at the latest success of the Paris theater, the play called "Chanticleer." Here we have La Fontaine's personnel before our very eyes. Chanticleer is a barnyard fowl, the cock who thinks that his crowing causes the sunrise. He is the type of the poet. The blackbird is his critic, facile imitator of any role. The nightingale is his associate in song, the hen-pheasant his ladylove. As the story is told one may not catch the fascination which this symbolist play apparently has for the French public. Only those who have properly oriented themselves can sympathize with the estimate of La

Fontaine as of epic importance, and the acclaim that this fantasy of Rostand has roused. For the work is by the author of "Cyrano de Bergerac" and "L'Aiglon."

Certain critics have said that it is not a piece for the theater, and should have for subtitle, "The Destiny of Poetry." In it the author has declared himself, and though there is not a human being on the stage, one says that there "is nothing more human than this piece." Actors take the parts, Jean Coquelin being one of them. They appear in carefully prepared guise that leaves only the face free. This gives the barnyard fowls the size of human beings, but the stage preserves verisimilitude by showing the sheds and fences, etc., on a correspondingly large scale. Chanticleer, for example, wears a helmet-like headpiece, the beak protruding over the face of the actor like a visor. It required seven years to prepare the piece, including doubtless the ingenious mechanical devices necessary.

Indian Lace Is in Demand

A collection of laces shown at the State Art Society exhibit at the public library art gallery is by the Onigum reservation Indians, near Leach lake. Each of the finely and beautifully worked meshes in the laces and drawn work tells a story of the Indian women in their struggle for education, and proves interestingly what the teacher at the reservation, Miss Colby, has accomplished through kindness and patience.

It seems almost impossible to believe that the rough hands of an Indian woman made the pair of baby shoes of exquisite lace over a lining of pink silk, which go with a cap of similar design made by another Indian woman—yet every stitch was worked by one of the women in Miss Colby's little bungalow; every bit of a large and handsome square of drawnwork finished with lovely lace was made at the same place, and many other articles from these painstaking workers. Orders that range from $100 to $200 are a means of keeping the mission going.

Painstaking and willing as the Indian lacemakers are, their one great trial is to keep their hands clean. Clean hands for the lacemakers are an absolute essential, for soiled lace cannot be put on the market, and so the cry goes forth in Miss Colby's bungalow: "Clean hands; clean aprons." Once the lacemakers have mastered this rule, they find their reward by receiving permission to take their lace home to finish it.—Minneapolis Journal.

Whoever can influence men should strive to make them more courageous, more enduring, more hopeful, simpler, more joyful.—Bishop Spaulding.

IN OLD MADRID

CONVEYANCES SEEN IN THE SPANISH CAPITAL.

Madrid seems to the traveler a disappointingly commercial sort of place. Little of the romance of old Spain is apparent to the first survey. And yet alongside of the electric cars and automobiles one may occasionally see conveyances like these shown here. Five mules tandem draw the cart in the upper cut and slow-moving, plodding oxen haul the immense block of granite along the broad avenues of this thoroughly up-to-date and modern city.

PATRIOTS' DAY

CONCORD and Lexington day, April 19, is a real Bostonian festival, of course, and it is celebrated in a characteristic manner enough. It is likely to be one of the first of the warm, happy spring times, and the parks and suburban places are always full of holiday makers. There is never any large demonstration, such as may come in June when Bunker Hill is remembered. Patriots' day is a homelike day, even as the New England Thanksgiving is. Families are all about in groups, the river at the Newtons and Dedham begins to be full of merry parties of young folks; the marathon race is run, anticipated all the year by youthful enthusiasm, which enkindles its like in the homes of Boston. The Back Bay is given over to this event, indeed, and the pedestrian or driver who would reach "the other side of Commonwealth avenue" finds himself helpless in the close packed crowds that line the ropes along the course. No, the policeman cannot let you across, for the whole mob might take a fancy to follow. So until the last trotter is in—and indeed the run is not even a trot at the close—one may wander disconsolate, shut off from friends and home by the patient spectators, of await numbers three and four and five and the rest with apparently the same anticipation which made number one's entry so uproarious.

Did we say it was a home day? Yes, for where is the American family more at home than on the baseball bleachers? The season opens on this day. This year there were two important league games, one in the morning and one in the afternoon. Huntington avenue was a river of black hats and bright bonnetry. All of the people hurried, and many of them ran. It was as if they could not reach the arena of the momentous conflict soon enough. The side streets contributed just as dense throngs and afterward the uproar—ah, well, every American knows the sound of the flood of baseball enthusiasm sweeping across the benches. One fancies that the sailing ball must be upborne across the blue by the very breath of the full-throated acclamation.

The patriotic societies meet on this day, and in some suburban places the militia are out in memory of their plucky farmer forbears. But in general it is a picnicking day in the pleasant April weather rather than a parading one, and it is surely kept in a far better fashion than the noisy Fourth of July.

THE FIRST MATHEMATICS

The cradle of mathematics is in the tally marks of the savages, believes Maj. Charles E. Woodruff, the anthropologist. The natural way of recording numbers is by tally marks, and it is the universal custom of mankind, at least, of all intelligent enough to count.

Historians of mathematics use the term tally marks to refer to the notched sticks, but it is here meant to refer to any simple marks or scores. Tally marks must be so distinctive that they can be read no matter how the coin or stick is held, vertically, horizontally, or inverted.

The modern six or nine would have been useless, since they would have been undistinguishable unless the top were known. Therefore, we find many instances in which the numerals have been inverted or inclined at various angles, as it was of no practical importance at first whether they were upside down or not.

Our two, as well as the four, five, six, or seven, all have been inverted and reversed at times. There may also have been reversals of the forms due to the fact that the people from whom the Arabs obtained the numerals probably wrote from left to right, while the Arabs wrote from right to left, and the Europeans from left to right.

In addition to this one, Sanskrit language was written from right to left and another left to right. When forms of numerals are evidently tally marks the ancient tribes probably would not stick to any particular arrangement, but form new ones, provided they indicated numbers. This is the most reasonable explanation of the evident tally mark nature of the numerals.

Ten is a nine with an extra stroke, and the eights are sevens with an extra stroke. The four, five, and six also clearly are derived from groups of marks. In course of time, by slurring, omission of strokes, and adding embellishing flourishes, the manuscript forms arose. In the seven, there is a perfect graduation of evolutionary forms to our present seven.

In the four the resemblance is seen by making an assumption. In the five there is more evidence of an attempt to write decisively one of the X forms of the Chinese. The supremacy of the Chinese is explained by the fact that the Chinese numerals were the first ideographs in the field.—Chicago Tribune.

ETERNAL LIFE

DEATH is the one experience which mortals regard as inevitable. Notwithstanding the fact that death has been the almost universal experience of mankind there has always existed in the breasts of men a sense of rebellion and a dim hope that somehow, somewhere, sometime the chief enemy would be overcome. The fact that men have feared, fought and tried to overcome death is proof of its abnormality, for if death were a reality, a part of God's plan, it would be accepted as a matter of course and without resistance.

Jesus Christ came showing mortals how to escape the dread enemy, offering his simple solution in the immortal words, "And this is life eternal [for life continuous], that they might know Thee, the only true God, and Jesus Christ whom Thou has sent." It is frequently said when this saying is quoted, "That refers to spiritual death," but a careful study of the Master's teaching and practice prove such a conclusion untenable. The death Jesus referred to was the kind from which he raised Lazarus and others.

In 1866 Mrs. Eddy discovered the rule and method whereby Jesus accomplished his mighty work and started a death-bound world by asserting that these works could be duplicated in our day and age through a spiritual understanding of his teaching.

There is a popular fallacy that God sends or permits death for some purpose. The surviving members of a family are frequently exhorted to submit to the will of God who has taken away their beloved one. Such a conclusion is not in accordance with the Scriptures, which teach that death is the wages of sin. Here the term sin is used in its broad sense and includes all error whether willful or unintentional—all that is embodied in a lack of understanding of God and His laws. John tells us that the "son of God was manifested that he might destroy the works of the devil"

[evil], and certainly death was among the evils Jesus destroyed. Mrs. Eddy, says in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," on page 428, "Man's privilege at this supreme moment is to prove the words of our Master: 'If a man keep my saying he shall never see death.' The Scriptures contain instances of several who through spiritual understanding escaped death."

The fact that in the recent centuries all have died, including those who were trying to follow Christ, does not in any way invalidate the promises; it simply proves that those who have died were not good enough or did not know enough to avoid that experience.

The possibility of escaping death is just as good now as in the first or any other century. It is simply a question of conforming to the conditions named by the Master.

Christian Science is doing valiant service in dispelling the fear of those who, in the language of the Scriptures, "through fear of death were all their lifetime subject to bondage." To remove the fear of death is to widen one's horizon; to extend one's effort farther into the future. Indeed, to destroy the fear of death is to minimize death itself. A long time may elapse before death is utterly abolished; but the victory over death will be gained as the mortal elements of human consciousness are discovered and eliminated. If death is the wages of sin, it logically follows that in the degree sin is overcome the liability to die is lessened, and this growth will go on until the promise in Revelation be fulfilled, "And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes, and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain, for the former things are passed away."

The "Trail" in Kansas

It is an especial pleasure to note at this time that in the Sunflower state the good roads movement has been inaugurated in earnest; that the whereas-and-resolved status has been passed and that dirt is already flying.

The work in Kansas is being expended upon the old Santa Fe trail—the thoroughfare over which the tide of emigration moved in the old days when the prairie schooners with their loads of solitary but hopeful home and fortune seekers journeyed toward the distant West. The Kansas plan is to have a 30-foot roadway between Kansas City and Santa Fe. Seven counties are now engaged in doing their part.—Des Moines Capital.

The sense of humor is the oil of life's engine. Without it, the machinery creaks and groans. No lot is so hard, no aspect of things is so grim, but it relaxes before a hearty laugh.—George S. Merriam.

Closing the Doors

I have closed the door on Doubt; I will go by what light I can find, And hold up my hands, and reach them out

To the glimmer of God in the dark, and call: "I am thine, though I grope and stumble and fall."

I serve; and Thy service is kind." I have closed the door on Fear. He has lived with me far too long. If he were to break forth and reappear, I should lift my eyes and look at the sky.

And sing aloud, and run lightly by: He will never follow a song. I have closed the door on Gloom. His house has too narrow a view. I must seek for my soul a wider room, With windows to open and let in the sun, And radiant lamps when the day is done, And the breeze of the world blowing through.

—Irene P. McKeehan in Century Magazine.

Runs in the Family

Mr. Agile (to Mr. Stoutman, running for a car): "Hallo, old boy! I thought you were too lazy to run like that."

Mr. Stoutman (laughingly): "Easily explained, my dear boy; laziness runs in our family."—Lippincott's.

For love is a celestial harmony.—Spenser.

As regards the two lives, I do not think you would be the better for withdrawing from society. Another set of temptations would arise, and perhaps what are quite as dangerous, though more subtle. But what we have to do in our vocation, whatever it is, is to be quite sure we stand on God's side, and doing this will always cause us to use God's gifts without abusing them and as for His glory. How rightly to win in this world's life, even in a moderate degree, needs much inward self-discipline and self-restraint, much watchfulness to be true to God, and a fixed rule as to what one will or will not do, all this needs a very true conscientious dealing with oneself. . . . I am far from thinking it is possible to serve God and the world, but living in the world is not serving the world.—H. Monsell.

To High School Graduates

The National Magazine makes the following offer to boys and girls:

Thoughts of the boys and girls in high school are now turning toward graduation day. The National is always interested in the boys and girls and will offer prizes for the three graduation essays best suited for an article in the National Magazine. Now boys and girls, get busy and send us a copy of your graduation essay. This ought to stimulate you to hurry up on that essay, because the essay will be printed in the July issue, after it has been delivered. Send the copy to the editor, and keep it within 2000 words. The first prize will be $10, the second $5 and the third a copy of "Heart Songs." We want to show the readers of the National what the high school graduates can do. Portraits of the successful contestants will be published with their essays.

A Drive With the Governor

A pretty incident of childhood is told in Mr. Rideing's book of about the boyhood of American writers. A lad, barefooted and with his gun in his hand set out for an afternoon in the woods. As he jumped from the fence into the dusty road he saw a carriage approaching, and in it sat the Governor of the state, who was being talked of for the presidency. Young Thomas knew it was time to show his manners, so he drew himself up by the road very stiffly and presented arms, just as the chaise came past. The Governor was amused and stopped to speak to the lad, asking his name. "Thomas Bailey Aldrich" came the answer, with a military salute from the ragged brim of his old straw hat. The Governor invited him then to get in and take a ride with him, and the boy always remembered the pride of that half hour beside the Governor of Maine.

The Taft Program Blocked

THE status of the administration measures in Congress is more uncertain now than at any previous time. The postal savings bill has made little, if any, progress recently toward its final passage. The railroad bill seems to be losing rather than gaining strength as the debate proceeds. The land withdrawal bill is said to be almost wholly unsatisfactory to extremists on both sides of the conservation question. The injunction bill, if passed, will be a substitute for a Taft measure, although perhaps not an unsatisfactory one. Other administration recommendations have either been shelved already or are very likely to be disposed of within a short time. The outlook is not encouraging for the White House; it is not encouraging for the regulars; it is not encouraging for the Republican party. The Democrats appear to have become so confident of the utter breakdown of the administration program that they do not deem it necessary any longer to make professions of friendship for the insurgents.

There is the possibility, of course, that an appeal from the President and the leaders, calculated to arrest the attention of all the Republican representatives and senators who are not actually committed to irreconcilable insurgency, may be issued, and may result in a rally of the forces that will save the day. But this, to say the least, is improbable.

Heretofore, the President has borne good naturedly with disappointments, which have not been far removed from rebuffs, in dealing with a Congress that professes to be friendly to his administration. Whether he will continue in this attitude much longer is becoming an interesting question. He has now before him for consideration and approval a favorite piece of congressional legislation, the river and harbor bill. A more timely or fitting opportunity of permitting it to become known that he is tired of the present situation could hardly be afforded him. If he should veto this "pork barrel" measure—a measure which already stands condemned out of his own mouth—he would uncover undoubtedly the real sentiment of many of his professed friends in Congress and establish its attitude to his entire satisfaction. But he would accomplish far more than this. He would establish his own independence before the country and win popular applause and support that would doubtless be worth having.

ALTHOUGH horses have been superseded to a great extent by automobiles, they are not to be had at low prices. At a recent sale in Chicago 471 horses realized almost $140,000, or about $300 apiece.

NUMEROUS attempts are being made by genuine as well as doubtful friends of the postal savings bank idea to explain why many should seem to place obstacles in the way of the passage of a measure looking to the establishment of a postal savings bank system in this country. The present bill, amended to suit some radical views in the Senate, may be admitted, for the mere sake of argument, to be unsatisfactory. It may be conceded that it carries provisions that would handicap the operation of the system. It may even be conceded that it is too experimental in its character, and too venturesome in certain of its aims. But no postal savings bank law that the present session of Congress may enact will contain the final word on the subject. It may be, and doubtless it will be, amended frequently.

The civil service law as originally enacted was far from being entirely satisfactory to the friends of civil service reform. It is still being improved at every session. The interstate commerce law is the result of growth, and it is still growing. Congress spends a large part of its time every session in amending and strengthening laws already in existence. Real friends of postal savings banks, if they be wise, will accept from the present Congress a measure in any shape that promises to be reasonably satisfactory. Let the system once be put in operation and it will be certain to grow up to the necessities and possibilities of the future. The thing is to obtain from a reluctant Congress a law that will give the postal savings bank system a start.

THE indorsement by the Indiana Democratic state convention of John W. Kern as the party's candidate for the United States senatorship, in opposition to Senator A. J. Beveridge, whose term expires on March 4 next, and the cheerful acceptance of this action not only by Mr. Kern but by Mr. Taggart, whose aspirations were strongly in the same direction, assure a contest in the next Indiana Legislature between two men of unquestioned character and ability and national reputation. The real battle, however, will be fought before the Legislature assembles, and lost or won according as the state shall decide to accept the progressive Republican platform which Senator Beveridge stands for, or to insist upon giving the progressive Democracy which Mr. Kern represents a chance to control legislation at Washington.

A Good Word for East Texas

ORDINARY people speak of Texas as if it were an ordinary state, when, in fact, it is nothing of the kind. They lose sight of the fact that it has an area of 265,896 square miles and a population which bids fair to give it third place among the states of the Union according to the returns of the census now under way. People talk of going to Texas and of coming from Texas, but if they are acquainted with the extent of Texas they do this as people talk of going to and coming from Europe, or Asia, or South America. Even the Texans themselves do not always take in the fact that to all intents and purposes the Lone Star state is an empire, rather than a province. When they do take it in, the North Texans speak of South Texas, and the West Texans of the East Texans, and vice versa, as people who, while bound to them by friendly and indissoluble ties of race, interest, etc., are occupying another and somewhat remote part of the earth. Dallas, for example, is six counties west of the Louisiana line, but they are such big counties that to the residents of Dallas East Texas seems a long way off, yet the Texans over in the Pecos or El Paso country regard Dallas as a place somewhere in the Orient. But the great advantages of the magnificent distances which prevail in Texas is that there is no rivalry between the sections and no reason for any. Thus, the Dallas News, referring to the wondrous productiveness of East Texas, is able to say: "A goodly portion of the News staff has been recruited from the piny woods district, and they cherish fond memories of yellow-legged chickens, spring eggs, golden butter and splendid buttermilk which were to be found on every table in that section in the years ago." And, presumably, are to be found to this day.

The occasion for this kindly reference is the fact that an industrial congress was held over at Nacogdoches recently at which attention was especially directed to exhibits of fruit, vegetables, cereals, etc., raised in East Texas. The truth is, it appears to have been impossible for the managers of the industrial congress to crowd into it more than a fraction of the samples of East Texas productiveness which came to them for display, and among the valuable contributions crowded out for want of space were chickens and eggs and butter and milk. Nothing save an unselfish desire to set East Texas right in the estimation of all the rest of Texas has prompted the Dallas News to make it clear that in that part of Texas from which the journalism of metropolitan Texas is recruited, the yellow-legged chicken and all the delicacies that go with it, and are inseparable from it, are still plentiful and worthy.

Cotton Manufacturers' Convention

IN HIS official welcome to the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers holding its annual convention in Boston this week, Governor Draper paid tribute to the courage of its members. If they hadn't courage, said he, they wouldn't be building such large mills under present market conditions. In New Bedford, for instance, they are making the greatest expenditures in years for additions to their mills, and the same is true of Lowell and Lawrence. They have confidence; they think business will be good—in that belief the Governor said he coincided with them. He classed the textile industry as one of the greatest in the commonwealth.

The convention took place in the Mechanics building, where there is an exhibition of textile products and machinery that will continue through Saturday evening. Primarily set up for the benefit of the delegates to the association meeting, it has features of interest to the general public. One may witness and have explained to him the making of fabrics from the raw material to the finished article. Many states are represented, machines having come from New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Indiana, Rhode Island, North Carolina, Michigan, Missouri, Minnesota and a large number from Massachusetts, the total of exhibitors being over a hundred. The show affords manufacturers a good opportunity for comparing the merits of various devices, and therein has peculiar value with relation to the convention.

A feature of the meetings of delegates was the address of President MacLaurin of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, in which he outlined what the institute has done in tests on methods of "carding" and "drawing," investigations on the qualities of different yarns, and in chemical researches bearing on the textile industry. He said the institute placed its laboratories and the services of its experts freely at the disposal of the manufacturers of the country, asking nothing in return except the actual cost of the investigations undertaken. Its aim was simply to help on the development of the resources and industries of the nation. Splendid possibilities are here opened to our manufacturers and they surely will take advantage of the opportunities offered for the advancement of their interests.

THE Republican insurgents were given a shaking up in the Senate on Wednesday that was far from agreeable to them. The Democrats turned upon them and gave them to understand that they could not travel forth and back at will between the camps of the two great rival parties. The insurgents now find that instead of being welcomed first in one party and then in the other, they are being shot at from both. Senator Bailey of Texas told them plainly that "no man can claim the protection of a flag and at the same time fire upon it." The insurgents were caught off guard, and, in attempting a defense, Senator Dolliver of Iowa said:

I propose to fight, not against the Republican party, but for it, to fight within its ranks, not in order to cripple or injure or to disturb its usefulness, but to make it the obedient servant, no longer of a few men or a few overgrown financial interests, but of the scattered millions who make up its membership and who have a right to be consulted in its management and control.

This laid the senator open to a sharp cut from Mr. Bailey, in the retort that if he were chairman of the Democratic congressional campaign committee he would circulate that explanation all over the United States as a campaign document against the Republican party. He claimed that it was an admission that the Republican party is controlled and dominated by the special interests.

Senator Rayner of Maryland along with Senator Bailey served notice on the insurgents that he was tired of the flirtations the radicals have been carrying on with the Democracy and asked them to declare their intentions. Both invited them to come over and join the Democrats. In conclusion, Senator Bailey tendered the insurgents a piece of valuable advice when he said: "You may win defending what the Republican party has done. You cannot win as Republicans denouncing its legislation and its leaders."

The episode apparently has had the effect of opening the eyes of the insurgents to their real relations with their party and it may have a sobering influence upon them.

THE statement that is being made to the effect that it costs the United States $500,000,000 a year to feed the rats that it contains and that there are five rats to each human being seems rather startling, as does the further affirmation that if the census just now being taken were to include an enumeration of the rats as well, it would show that their numbers are rapidly increasing. Are these statistics to be looked at from any point of view as a reflection upon the manner in which the millions of cats of the nation are fulfilling their purr-puss?

Lord Rosebery's Resolutions

THE fresh resolutions for reform which Lord Rosebery will shortly bring before the House of Lords represent a further attempt to effect an expression of general principles rather than to develop a detailed scheme of reform. They are only two in number, though one of them contains three separate propositions, and, if carried, may form the basis of a set of more precise resolutions, or even of a bill itself. The first clause of the first resolution declares that the future Lords of Parliament shall be chosen, inter alia, by the entire body of hereditary peers, either from among themselves or by nomination by the crown. It will be seen that this, while safeguarding the hereditary principle in theory, affords no indication either of the proportion in which the selection is to be effected or of the limit to which the self-denying ordinance is to be pushed. Both these decisions will leave room for almost unlimited difference of opinion. Next, the resolution declares that a proportion of the Lords shall sit by virtue of offices and qualifications held by them, and finally that a modicum shall be chosen from outside. It is, of course, perfectly plain that these last two clauses are so extraordinarily elastic that they are capable of being stretched to almost any extent. Presumably, therefore, Lord Rosebery is seeking rather for an expression of opinion from the House than attempting to frame a model for its acceptance. It does not require unlimited acumen to foresee that the answer he will receive from Lord Halsbury or Lord Newton will be vastly different.

The second resolution declares that the tenure of office of all Lords of Parliament shall be the same, with the exception of those sitting ex officio. The distinction contained in this is obviously inevitable, but the earlier part, beyond determining that the hereditary peer and the qualified peer shall sit for the same period, does not attempt to define what that period shall be, and between a lifetime and a session there may be a great gulf fixed. Interesting, in short, as Lord Rosebery's further resolutions are, they will commit the House to very little. The really interesting moment will come when he proceeds to fill in the blanks. That will be the hour of the backwoodsmen.

Over the Ocean Next

PARIS is echoing with plaudits for Paulhan. The skilful aviator is the hero of the hour throughout France, and indeed all the world is bestowing praise upon him for his successful flight in an aeroplane from London to Manchester, a distance of 186 miles. Paulhan has many times experienced the joy of victory, being a star competitor at aviation meets abroad and in this country; he has accomplished the highest flight ever made in an aeroplane (4165 feet), and he holds the record for continuous flight across country (118 miles in 3½ hours), yet nothing before has brought him a reward so valuable materially as that won in the London-Manchester flight, the $50,000 prize offered by the London Daily Mail.

It is less than a year since Louis Paulhan made his first flight in an aeroplane. That was on July 10, 1910, when he flew 1¼ miles at Douai, France. Five days later, still a novice, he flew 1h. 17m. 5s., reaching a height of 400 feet. Since then his record has been remarkable. In the opinion of many he ranks second to none as an air navigator, possessing courage and daring of a high order, combined with skill and a thorough knowledge of his art. A few years ago he was a mechanic in France at a small salary. When he came to the United States for a tour of six months he was said to have received $20,000 a month and expenses.

M. Paulhan states that the London-Manchester trip may be easily made without a stop. He made several long cross-country voyages in America, and he was probably confident of winning when he started on this latest long ride. The public need not be surprised to hear before many months that Paulhan has set off on an over-the-ocean flight. From the westernmost point of the British Isles to St. Johns, Newfoundland, is about 1600 miles. At fifty miles an hour the flier would require but little over thirty hours for the passage. Watch for Paulhan!

THE organization in this city of the Society for the Preservation of New England Antiquities guarantees the saving of more of the old landmarks and objects of historical interest. Its president is Charles K. Bolton.

THE stampede of seven circus elephants at Danville, Ill., on Wednesday constitutes an incident that is certain to invite unusual comment at this time, and for reasons that will be obvious even to the most obtuse when the facts, immediate and incidental, are made known. In the first place, Danville, Ill., is Speaker Cannon's home town, and anything in the nature of a stampede, or a revolt, or an insurrection, in Speaker Cannon's town, or in Speaker Cannon's neighborhood, or in Speaker Cannon's vicinity, at this time, has engrossing, if not, thrilling, interest for the whole country.

It would be folly to undertake to attempt to outline the various turns which the comment will take, but it is safe to say that the incident will be made use of equally by both factions of the party of which the elephant is a symbol. It may be said, on the one hand, that evidently the most docile of animals, the circus elephant, could not restrain a desire to insurgence the moment he found himself in the environment of Cannonism. On the other hand, it will be said that if Speaker Cannon had been in his home town when the seven elephants rose in revolt against their keepers and deserted their circus he would have speedily subdued them with a discourse on the virtue of standing pat.

The extremists on the insurgent side may not be content until they shall have attempted to prove by the Danville incident that Czarism must go; the extremists on the regular side may not be content until they shall have attempted to prove by it that meddling with the tariff at this time will mean the disturbance of business and the upsetting of those conditions that make for national prosperity.

However all this may be, the fact that the seven insurgent elephants are again eating the circus hay in at least seeming contentment will be likely to cause uneasiness in any Democratic circles wherein it was hoped that the rebellious animals would refuse to be reconciled on any terms.
